Elaina Patterson pleads guilty to stealing millions from bank customers in investment scheme

Wilmington residents among victims

By JAYNE W. MILLER
News Editor

WOBURN/WILMINGTON - A former personal banker and Wilmington resident has been sentenced to up to five years in prison and 10 years of probation for stealing more than $2 million from her clients that she used to fund a lavish lifestyle.

Elaina Patterson, of Wilmington, was sentenced Monday after pleading guilty to 31 larceny counts in a scheme that lasted more than twelve years and targeted her own family, friends, and the elderly. During the scheme, the Patterson conducted fraudulent transactions worth approximately $6 million and made payments back to investors and customers of nearly $3.8 million.

Patterson was taken into custody after Monday's hearing to begin serving her sentence. "This defendant's gross violation of trust negatively impacted more than 30 victims, many of whom were her friends and family, and others who were long-time and often elderly customers," AG Coakley. "Through today's state prison sentence, she is being held accountable for her deceitful and illegal actions."

Patterson pleaded guilty Monday in Middlesex Superior Court in Woburn to the charges of Larceny over $250 from a Person over Sixty (15 counts), and Larceny over $250 (16 counts). After the plea was entered, Superior Court Judge Peter Lauriat sentenced Patterson to three to five years in state prison, with ten years of probation to serve upon completion of her sentence. Judge Lauriat also imposed the probationary condition that Patterson be prohibited from working in the financial services field. A restitution hearing will be scheduled and held at a later date.

WILMINGTON - Linda Peters is not someone who is afraid to step up to a challenge, as was evidenced by her outstanding tenure as the interim principal at Wilmington High School for the 2013-2014 academic school year. Subsequently, Mrs. Peters is also not someone to falter during an audition, as she has been declared the permanent principal for next year.

Superintendent Benton was extremely impressed with Peters, stating multiple times that she "did an excellent job" and that the district was "extremely proud of her performance as principal." The announcement of Peter's permanent position was made during last week's School

WILMINGTON—Selectman Judy O'Connell, who was first elected back in 2011 and is a former member of the School Committee, is seeking another term.

And she's running unopposed. "Everything will essentially be business as usual, in terms of how you prepare for a campaign," she said. "It won't be contested, which should be interesting."

She said that it has been "an honor" to serve on the Board of Selectmen, and she has been "delighted and excited to be a part of all the great things going on in the Town of Wilmington."

Peters named Principal

Committee Meeting. Superintendent Benton had kept the news private until the meeting, and the members of the School Committee were elated to hear the good news.

"Having had children come up through the Wilmington School System, I am happy that they were able to have Mrs. Peters as a teacher. The only bad thing about her new permanent position as principal is that other students won't be able to see how great she is in the classroom," said School Committee Chair Peggy Kane. "However, I have total confidence in her ability and have no doubt that she school will be in good hands under her tenure."

Benton went on to praise the collaborative nature of Peter's leadership style. "Mrs. Peters has engaged students, parents, teachers, support personnel and others for the purpose of promoting student well being and growth. She has the highest integrity, compassion for the most vulnerable, and an ability to empathize."

The school committee was moved to applause by the high praise issued out for Peters. When asked how she felt about the new title, Linda Peters stated that she felt "extremely honored" and "privileged to be able to be principal of such a great school." Peters took over after former principal Eric Tracy left for a new job in Hamilton-Wenham. Peters took the helm at a time of great change, as the construction of the new high school and demolition of sections of the old high school coincided with her interim principal position.

March-A-Pella takes Wilmington by song

By AARON HARRINGTON
Special to the Town Crier

WILMINGTON - Anyone who did not make it to Wilmington Middle School last Friday night may regret it. Attendees were treated to a musical performance not to be forgotten with the annual Soundscape fundraising concert, March-A-Pella.

Originating years ago to raise funds for the Wilmington High School's Soundscape A Cappella group, March-A-Pella has since blossomed into a vibrant annual event featuring both student groups, such as the Marblehead High School's "Grizzly Freaking Men," semi-professional groups like Boston's "Fermata Town", and the renowned professional group "Ball in the House."

The audience was treated to hit classics, from Michael Jackson to renditions of more recent hits from the Black Keys and Imagine Dragons; a wide variety that ensured everyone heard something that resonated personally.

As part of the show, Soundscape performed their own number, alongside the many other groups of the evening; with Soundscape are Wilmington High School students Nicole Bertolami, Jessica Kasparian, Ashley LeCambria, Sam Alatalo, Sharmetha Ramanan, Alise Lamothe, Nicole Tetreault, Rachel Sainato, Jordan Briere, Sylvan Hyun, Shannon Sullivan, and Mei Lou Barnum. During the performance, Soundscape presented a variety of musical selections, ranging from a slower, melodic rendition of "Hallelujah" to a more modern take on Imagine Dragons' "Radioactive." Various members of the group taking multiple roles spread out among the setlist, making for a unique a Cappella experience.

"It was exciting to see how much the group has improved over the past three years, and to be a part of it. I've never been so proud of a performance," commented Nicole Tetreault, Senior member of the group who finished her last March-A-Pella performance with WHS Soundscape. Many in the audience shared her opinion, as throughout the night the crowd in attendance was fully involved.

"It was amazing to see the crowd's energy and how much fun everyone was having," added Tetreault.

Following the show, Soundscape will next perform with the Wilmington High School's Jazz Band at the POPS concert in May; but for the moment Soundscape will take a small break and celebrate their success at this year's March-A-Pella performance.

The Shawsheen/West Elementary Schools held a trivia night to raise funds for the PAC on Saturday evening. Preparing for event are Sharon Lagunilla, Lisa Johnson, D.J. Mullen, Jen Bolanos, Hyla White, Jenn Bryson, Alexis Walsh and Tami McElligott.

HOME IMPROVEMENT AND YOUR TAXES

Home improvements can be costly. Adding a room, updating a kitchen, even turning an attic into a bedroom can run to $50,000 or more. So the question often comes up: can I deduct those expenses on my tax return?

The answer is no, not directly. But any capital improvements you make to your home are added to the purchase price and become part of your cost basis. When you eventually sell your home, the cost basis is deducted from the sale price to determine your capital gain (or loss) on the transaction. The cost basis might include any interest on a home equity loan that you took out to finance the home improvements. Any commission to a real estate broker is deducted from the sale price.

If you own and live in your home for at least two of the five years before the sale, you can exclude up to $250,000 from the gain ($500,000 if married and filing jointly).

Election 2014 - Candidate Statement

Donna Leone pursues School Committee seat

To the Community of Wilmington:

I am seeking your support, your vote, and a seat on our School Committee.

My name is Donna Leone, and my family and I have made Wilmington our home for the last 15 years. We chose to make Wilmington our home because of the strong community, safety and the excellent reputation of the public schools. My husband Michael and I have four children, all of whom attend Wilmington Public Schools, crossing the span from elementary school to high school.

To honor my commitment to all children, my husband and I have had the privilege to foster several children through the Massachusetts Department of Children and Families. I have also served as a CCD teacher at Saint Dorothy's and coached little league. Serving my community in these ways has provided me the great opportunity to meet many families and learn what is most important to the parents and children who live in Wilmington.

As a mother of a special educational needs child, creating district-wide Response to Intervention programming is a priority to me. Beginning in preschool, RTI procedures should be in place with effective implementation of differentiated learning models within general education environments and appropriate professional development made available to all staff for proper application and success for our children. Identifying the individual needs of students whether they are students with special educational needs, average students or gifted, is vital to creating a learning environment in which all children are taught in a manner that encourages them to learn and is an integral part of the success of students and faculty.

As a member of the school committee I will make it a priority to ensure that our children are protected from the threat of violence, including that of bullies. Every child is unique and has the right to a quality education. I am a strong advocate for children, all children and I believe it is our responsibility to ensure students learn and reach their fullest potential.

Thank you for taking the time to read my statement - I can be contacted via email at drl1226@gmail.com and can be found on Facebook by following this link: <https://www.facebook.com/DonnaLeoneForWilmingtonSchoolCommittee>.

I respectfully ask for your vote on April 26, 2014. Thank you.

Former Pats Cheerleader Hosts 80s Theme Party for Children's Charities

By SHERYL WALSH

WILMINGTON - It's a party. It's a show. It's fitness. But most of all it's fun. "No experience necessary," says event organizer and former New England Patriots cheerleader Kelli LaVita. The 6th Annual Zumba Event for Local Children's Charities will be held April 13 at 6:30 pm at the North Intermediate School in Wilmington.

Last year alone the sold-out event raised $3,500. This year LaVita and Brian Considine, both from Wilmington, will lead a team of 20 instructors as they dance the night away 80s style. Wilmington's Steve Greco and Greg Cardello of 343 Productions are the volunteer DJs.

LaVita has been dancing since age three and instructing since she was eighteen. La Vita's four years as a Patriots cheerleader allowed her to combine her love for dance and her passion for fitness, but there was more to it. "It also opened my eyes to the many local charitable organizations in the area," she explains. She and Considine have participated in almost fifty charity events since becoming involved with Zumba.

Considine has been a Zumba instructor for four years. He personally has recruited well over 100 people into the Zumba dance community. A fan right from the start, Considine sums up Zumba as his workout, his night out, and his therapy- all wrapped up in one 60-minute class.

As Considine has shown so many people, anyone can join in the fun. It is not unusual for first time dancers to attend this annual children's charities Zumba event. Instructors will use cues and repeat moves. "All you have to do is keep moving and have fun," LaVita promises.

One hundred percent of the proceeds go to the charities. This year the organizations receiving donations are Boston Children's Hospital, Make a Wish, and Birthday Wishes.

Policing across borders

Historic inter-agency mutual aid agreement by 54 chiefs aims to improve response to public safety emergencies

MIDDLESEX COUNTY - The Middlesex County Chiefs of Police Association today announced the signing of the Massachusetts Interagency Mutual Aid Agreement, authorized by the General Laws of the Commonwealth, which will empowers on-duty police officers in one jurisdiction to respond to public safety emergencies in other participating jurisdictions in certain circumstances.

Wilmington and Tewksbury are participating in the program.

The historic agreement, to date signed by 51 of the 54 communities in Middlesex County, as well as Wellesley, Lynnfield, and Saugus, establishes a strategic working partnership among the police departments that will provide community benefits in both day-to-day life and during a major incident.

The crux of the agreement is twofold: First, Police Chiefs now have a formal method of requesting immediate mutual aid assistance from neighboring communities during a critical incident or crime in progress. Second, an on-duty police officer, who may be traveling to court for the day or transporting a prisoner, can act if they observe a drunk driver or other unlawful behavior while traveling through another community.

"Police officers are expected to always be police officers, and they should never have to put themselves or others in danger by hastily rushing to stop a reckless driver or wanted felon before the town line," said Weston Police Chief Steven Shaw, President of the Middlesex County Chiefs of Police Association. "Crime doesn't stop at the border, and this agreement will help ensure that criminals can't escape the law."

The agreement is the product of more than a year of research and work by a special subcommittee of the Middlesex County Chiefs of Police Association, led by Arlington Police Chief Frederick Ryan. The work stemmed from two Supreme Judicial Court Decisions: Commonwealth v. LeBlanc (1990) and Commonwealth v. Bartlett (2013).

In the LeBlanc case, a drunk driver's case was thrown out because a Natick Police Officer followed the driver, who had been speeding and ran a red light, over the border into Framingham. The case left police with little recourse, under the law at the time.

The Bartlett case, however, held that police departments could establish Inter Agency Mutual Aid Agreements, extending policing powers to neighboring communities. Middlesex is the first county in Massachusetts to sign a county-wide Inter Agency Mutual Aid Agreement.

The agreement also covers nearly every community that the 2014 Boston Marathon will pass through. Major events like the marathon attacks last year and the security efforts for the marathon this year underscore the need for cooperation among law enforcement organizations.

"Major events in Massachusetts and elsewhere have highlighted the need for police departments to work together more effectively, and these events have shown that we are indeed more effective when we work together," said Bedford Police Chief Robert Bongiorno, Secretary of the Middlesex County Chiefs of Police Association.

"My officers regularly travel outside of our jurisdiction in the performance of their official police duties and, in the absence of this agreement, have had little to no authority to react immediately to witnessed critical incidents, motor vehicle infractions, and crimes in progress at those times," said Tewksbury Police Chief Tim Sheehan. "Officers are out of jurisdiction while traveling to and from courts, hospitals, training venues, juvenile detention facilities, and while conducting investigations and picking up detained suspects from other law enforcement agencies.

This agreement allows sworn officers to react immediately and appropriately without losing the time associated with alternatives like transferred authority."

"There is strength in numbers and no greater crime deterrent than the presence of a uniformed law enforcement officer," added Sheehan. "Their hard work was instrumental in the milestone of 54 municipalities signed on in such a short period of time."

"Working together, across invisible boundaries, is a real step in the right direction," said Belmont Police Chief Richard McLaughlin, Treasurer of the Association.

The agreement allows municipal police chiefs to retain command and control of incidents in their communities during incidents. It also requires police officers to notify the commanding officer of the community when they enter to conduct policing activities. The officers will either be requested as mutual aid from the neighboring community, or they may "Self Activate" when they observe or become aware of a violation of the law across the border.

The on-duty police officer may exercise their police powers within any community covered under the agreement: to prevent harm to the public, prevent property damage, stopping unlawful behavior, investigating possible criminal activity, increasing the manpower/capabilities of the department, detaining offenders, or enforcing traffic laws.

Tewksbury man dies in accident in NH

CHESTERFIELD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire State Police have identified the driver of a tractor trailer unit who was killed when his truck slid into a snow-covered embankment in Chesterfield.

Police say 52-year-old Fritz Etienne of Tewksbury,

Mass., was pronounced dead at the scene.

He was the only person involved.

Etienne was traveling west on Route 9 Wednesday when the trailer started to slide due to icy road conditions.

Police say he tried to get out on the driver's side, but ended up getting pinned underneath the vehicle.

Police said the unit came to rest on the westbound shoulder with the tractor portion facing east and the trailer portion facing northwest.

Police are still investigating the accident.

The Merrimack Valley Madoff

Sitting in the courtroom listening to the litany of charges read against Elaina Patterson was sobering. The extent people went to participate in her scheming was aweing. She looks like a nice lady; mother of three children, hardworking, trustworthy, so caring and thoughtful of her (particularly elderly) clients.

Elaina Patterson was a wolf in sheep's clothing.

This Wilmington resident (who worked at a Bank of America branch in Reading as a personal banker) took in more than $6 million in fraudulent transactions and stole a net of just over $2 million from 31 customers, 15 of them over age 60, in a Ponzi-type scheme, devastating her clients. Some of them members of this community.

She stole $90,000 from one client one week after he died. She brought muffins to another client on his deathbed, having been robbing his accounts for a year.

The scale, though not Bernie Madoff in proportion, certainly compares. Her hubris in initiating the scheme, her arrogance to profit from it, and later, her expansion of the crime to elderly customers when she could no longer cover the repayments to earlier investors.

As one victim wrote, "she is a sad excuse for a human being."

Elaina Peterson is also brilliant. With just a high school education this woman conducted a complicated fraud for more than twelve years before anyone detected her wrongdoing. I have to wonder how Bank of America, and before them, Fleet Bank, manages their employees.

To Bank of America's credit, they made most of the accounts whole again. I hope they also put into place more controls to prevent these kinds of crimes in the future.

In the courtroom Monday morning, Patterson showed her shame and remorse. When the names of family members were read along with the accounts, she cried. When she had to tell the judge the ages of her children, she cried. Though she did give her guilty plea in a quiet voice, she gave it over and over again in response to each of the thirty-one charges.

The prosecution asked for five to seven years in prison, with ten years probation. She was only sentenced to three to five, with ten years probation. With good behavior, she could be out earlier.

I'm not sure if such a short sentence is enough punishment to deter others, or instead may encourage those who are guilty to plead it out rather than take the lengthy trial route.

With several of her victims dead, Patterson can never make amends properly. She may never be able to make restitution for her crimes, and likely she'll never work in banking and financial services again.

But whatever the case, I hope a part of Elaina Patterson is redeemable, that she does some soul searching in prison, and discovers the good that people once saw in her and makes a decision to do something good with it.

Miceli supports Selissen

Dear Editor,

The town of Tewksbury has a great chance at a golden opportunity before it. A long-time citizen, leader, and role model for the community, Jerome "Jerry" Selissen has chosen to step forward as a candidate for town moderator. He will unquestionably fulfill the requirements of the position beyond the greatest expectations. This decision by Jerry to run should be embraced by all voters as his expertise in office, if elected, will greatly contribute to the quality of life here in the town of Tewksbury.

Mr. Selissen provides voters with a choice that guarantees dedication, ambition, and direction in their local government. Always attentive to the voices and opinions on the community, Jerry knows the concerns of the citizens of Tewksbury. He will work to continuously reach out to constituents in the community, and work to ensure that all aspects of the town government will work to serve the people. Local residents can expect Mr. Selissen to tackle problems ranging from developing economic growth and promoting businesses in town to maintaining the highest quality of education for our young citizens. He has been an extremely active contributor in town for many years, from volunteering in youth sports as a soccer coach to chairing the Town Manager selection committee.

Mr. Selissen will help lead Tewksbury to embrace and overcome any financial, social, or political challenges the town will face in the future. As a local resident with strong morals, a hard work ethic, and well-planned ideas for our community, Jerry would be one of the finest choices for the role of Town Moderator the town of Tewksbury has seen for many years. I hope that you, like I have myself, will choose Mr. Selissen to fulfill this role as Town Moderator come April, and will see Tewksbury become a stronger, more vibrant, and ambitious community in the years to come.

Sincerely,
Rep. Jim Miceli

Two votes for Panilaitis

Dear Editor,

We would like to endorse and support Bruce Panilaitis in becoming Tewksbury's next Selectman. Bruce has the intellect, experience, commitment, work ethic, interpersonal and leadership skills to continue to move our town in a positive direction. Bruce is already thoroughly involved in our community, as demonstrated by his efforts in our schools, youth sports and church, and we wholeheartedly support Bruce. We encourage you to vote for Bruce Panilaitis for Selectman on April 5th, 2014.

Wentworth supports Sears for Moderator

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter to express my support for Doug Sears as Town Moderator and encourage my fellow residents to vote for Doug Sears on April 5th.

I got to know Doug prior to my election to the Board of Selectmen. I first met him when I joined the Republican Town Committee and Doug was an active member and officer of the committee. Later, he became a big supporter of our efforts to pass the new high school. But, I never really knew how involved Doug is in our community until I had the opportunity to serve with him, as a Selectmen, this past year.

Doug is focused on making Tewksbury a great community through his pro-business efforts and his fiscal conservatism but his outreach is much greater than that. I can't count the number of times he has asked us to sign a citation for a resident that is turning 100 years old or has just returned from service abroad. He is not only thoughtful of these residents but he invests his time to visit and present these citations in person.

Some people may ask what that has to do with being a Town Moderator. It reflects his character and commitment to our community. I think the most striking demonstration of this commitment is when he shifted his reelection bid for Selectmen in order to fill the empty Moderator seat. That position stayed empty for a considerable amount of time until Doug stepped up to fill that role. I know Doug didn't want to give up his reelection bid for the Board of Selectmen but he saw that our community needed him to step up in a different capacity and he did.

I know that Doug will be a fair and firm Town Moderator and one that follows the process. I encourage all of my fellow residents to cast a vote on April 5th for Doug Sears for Town Moderator.

With Warm Regards,
Jim Wentworth

Sears an asset to community

Dear Editor,

I endorse Doug Sears for Town Moderator. Doug threw his hat in the ring when no one wanted this position. The Town needs a strong Town Moderator to run the Town Meeting. If you know Doug, then you know he is a great speaker; has a wonderful command of the English language; knows what is going on; knows the people; knows the politics; and is not afraid to speak up. He is also a lawyer which never hurts in a Town Moderator job. I do not know Jerry Selissen but I do commend anyone in this town who wishes to run for something or join a committee. We need good people and we should all do something. We can all make a difference and we should all find the time to vote.

As a Library Trustee, Chairman of the Tewksbury Republican Town Committee, and the owner of a small business in town, I know time is always the enemy. With family obligations coupled with work and travel schedules it is tough to find community time. Doug has always found the time. He has been an asset to our community. So, without any reservation, I strongly endorse Doug. I endorse him on character, capabilities, and commitment to our community. He will do a good job for us and is a good fit for this position.

Sears understands new Town Meeting voters

Dear Editor,

"The Moderator acts as a guide/umpire and manager of the Town Meeting and helps the Town Meeting Members in framing and directing their questions and comments. The Moderator is the final authority on all parliamentary issues unless overridden by the Town Meeting Members."

Those of us who attend Town Meeting realize how important the Town Moderator is. He must be impartial, he must be unbiased, no matter what his opinion on the matter he cannot project that to the Town Meeting. After looking at both candidates and what they have done for the good or not so good for the Town of Tewksbury we believe Doug Sears is the best man for the job. He entered on the political scene as the 'spoiler,' the one who would always vote against the long-time politicians but, as we have seen, he is willing to look at both sides and to vote with the good ole boys sometimes much to the dismay of his supporters. Doug Sears supported the Open Town Meeting along with the majority of the voters. Doug understands the open town meeting concept, not only the historical aspect but the fairness of giving any and all voters the opportunity to come to Town Meeting and not only vote but also be able to express their opinion so all can hear. We have not always agreed with everything Doug has voted for but we understand that he votes his conscience and believes that he has done what is right. Before Doug was ever elected to office he was the one standing on Town Meeting floor and being the lone objector. Doug knows that a voter can be bullied at Town Meeting if the Moderator does not do his job. Doug Sears has been there, he has seen how a Moderator can make a difference in the way a Town Meeting is held and we believe just those experiences alone will make Doug a better Moderator.

Both candidates bring a lot of elected and volunteer experience in the Town of Tewksbury and both have the ability to stand in front of the Town Meeting assembly but we want someone who understands the voter who may never have attended a meeting before. Doug Sears is the candidate who will understand. Doug Sears will help the new voter and the voter who has attended all Town Meetings but was afraid to get up and speak because they didn't want to look foolish. Doug will be a moderator that will give all the voters the courage to speak, the guidance to get their point across, and their questions answered and the respect that all deserve not just those standing in front of the assembly. That is why we support DOUG SEARS FOR MODERATOR. William and Patricia Meuse

Dear Editor,

I am supporting Jerry Selissen for Tewksbury Town Moderator.

Over the thirty years that I have known him, Jerry has been involved in more than a dozen activities ranging from running Bingo at St. Williams Church to fundraising for the Tewksbury Patriotic Activities Committee, all aimed at making the Town of Tewksbury a better place to live.

Please join me in voting for Jerry Selissen for Tewksbury Town Moderator. Thank you,
Jay Kelley

Selissen for Moderator

Dear Editor,

I wanted to take a moment to give a public thank you, to four wonderful young ladies from the Wilmington High School girls Lacrosse team. Caroline Albanese, Jenny Holloran, Rachel Mara and Caroline Robarge. These four have been helping out the Girls U11 Youth Lacrosse team on Sunday nights at Turf Time in Tewksbury. Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association offers preseason skill sessions to all the kids in the program, to help get ready for the upcoming season.

These four young ladies have been reliable, supportive and fun over the past 8 weeks. The Girls U11 team consists of second, third and fourth graders, with one spunky first grader. Most of these girls are brand new to the sport of Lacrosse. As such, there is a lot to teach and help with and the high school girls were more than up for the challenge. They take their roles of coach to these (hopefully) future Wildcat girls Lacrosse team members seriously, while keeping in mind that they're working with young kids. Every week these young ladies showed their love of the sport and their kind nature to all the girls. They kept the kids engaged and having fun while working on skills. In today's day of questionable role models, I am so happy to have four great, local, role models for my daughter to look up to. She not only sees commitment, strength and generosity of spirit from all four ladies, she gets a personal thrill when she sees them around town and they take the time to talk to her or give her a shout out and a wave. Thank you Ca, Rachel, Jenny and Caroline for helping out and being great.

Staples to close more stores

Wilmington closed last year. Will Tewksbury be next?

BY JAYNE W. MILLER
News Editor
Jayne@YourTownCrier.com

TEWKSBURY - The Wilmington Staples closed its doors January 4, 2013 after four years at the 235 Main Street location. Last week Staples announced it would close another 225 North American stores by 2015 in an effort to concentrate on online sales.

The store closures aim to cut $500 million by the end of 2015. With nearly half of the corporation's sales generated online, the move aims to streamline overhead costs while allowing the firm to sell a broader range of products, including supplies for medical firms such as dental and doctor offices.

For now, the Tewksbury store at 10 Main Street remains open.

"As customers shift online, we are taking aggressive action to right-size our retail footprint," said Carrie McElwee, a company spokesperson. "We are committed to providing great service and every product businesses need whether it's in-store, online or through mobile. We don't have additional details to share on specific locations or timing."

This year's reasoning mirrors the explanation used when the firm shuttered the Wilmington location and 29 other stores last year.

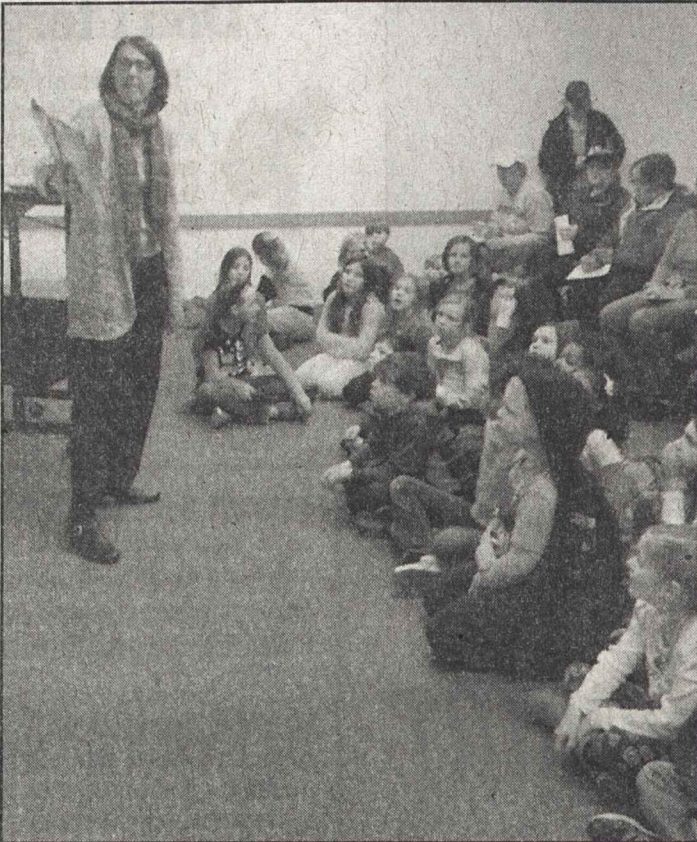

"At Staples, we're committed to providing every product businesses need to succeed, and our expanded assortment gives customers more of what they want," whether it's in-store, online or via mobile," said Mike Edwards, executive vice president, merchandising - Staples. "The new categories we're adding to our stores further build on our expanded Staples.com assortment to help our customers Make More Happen."

Staples will refresh nearly 20 percent of its products, adding about 1,600 items in categories beyond office supplies. At the same time the company will remove about 1,000 items, creating an assortment of office supply essentials.

The eight new categories include: facilities and break-room supplies, maintenance repair and operations items; mail and ship expanded assortment, retail supplies for small businesses; storage solutions; gifts and cards for office parties; organizational accessories from Poppin® brand; and early education toys and learning aids. The items were added after extensive customer tests over the past year.

Spring gardening

Start with Strawberries

Homegrown strawberries are a billion times better tasting than the hard, rarely ripe, flavorless selection in the supermarket. Strawberries are cold-hardy and adaptable, making them one of the easiest berries to grow. While most fruit trees take several years to begin bearing, you can harvest your own strawberries the very first summer. And even if you live in an apartment or small home, you can grow strawberries in a container on your balcony, rooftop, patio, or even doorstep. If your horizontal space is limited, consider growing strawberries in a hanging basket or stacked planter, which will allow you to take advantage of vertical growing space as the strawberry plants tumble out over the sides.

There are two main kinds of strawberries: "June-bearing" and "Ever-bearing" varieties. June-bearing, bear all at once, usually over a period of about 3 weeks. Because of their earliness, high quality and concentrated fruit set, June-bearers, like "Allstar", produces high yields of very large, sweet, extra juicy berries in late mid-season, which is usually late spring and early summer, depending on your geographic region. These are the best variety for preserving.

"Ever-bearing" strawberries produce a big crop from spring flowers, set light flushes of fruit through summer, and then bloom and bear again in late summer and fall. Perfect for large containers or raised beds, where you can give them attentive watering and regular feeding.

Bonnie Plants, available at most garden retailers, offers a good selection of ever-bearing strawberries including: "EverSweet"- This variety offers large berries ripening in abundance. Savor a long harvest, with fruits ripening from late spring until frost. "Quinalt" - the most popular variety of ever-bearing strawberry, offers large, soft, deliciously sweet fruit, ideal for preserves or fresh eating. And new this spring: there's two compact varieties which don't produce many runners, making them both perfectly suited for containers: Tristan- This eye-catching edible ornamental shows unusual pink blooms, which fade to form plump, sweet, medium-size strawberries. Loran: Pretty white blooms fade to form large, deep red, cone-shaped berries on this ever-bearing variety. Fruits burst with sweet flavor. Harvest stretches all season long, with fruits ripening from late spring until frost.

Timely Tips to ensure strawberry success:

- *When planting strawberries, be sure the crown is above soil level and the upper most roots are 1/4 inch beneath soil level, buried crowns rot and exposed roots dry out. Strawberry plants should be placed approximately 14 to 18 inches apart from each other in neat rows that are separated by 2-3 feet each. Let runners fill in until plants are 7-10 inches apart.
- *Use mulch to keep berries clean, conserve moisture and control weeds.

If you want to keep it simple, plant strawberries in a container. Just remember that container plantings need much more water than in-ground plantings, usually once a day; and if it's hot, twice. Strawberry pots are the obvious, best container choice for growing strawberries. You can fit several plants in one pot; just make sure whatever type of garden pot you use has good drainage. Strawberries have a relatively small root ball and can be grown in containers as small as 10-12 inches in diameter and 8 inches deep. However, the smaller the container, the more frequently you will need to water. Synthetic and light colored pots will keep the roots cooler than dark colors and natural materials that conduct heat.

*Strawberries like well drained fairly rich soil, so be sure to add compost or other organic matter when preparing the pot or patch.

*They need full sun, 6-8 hours per day, and frequent, deep soakings. They will grow in all zones and should be fed twice a year -- when growth begins and after the first crop. You'll need to feed them with a plant food like Bonnie Plant Food, this herb and vegetable food has nutrients and growth stimulants that your strawberry plants will love.

*Control slugs and snails by handpicking them off plants and prevent theft from birds by covering your patch with netting as the first berries ripen.

Strawberries are one of the easiest and most delicious home garden fruits to grow. Try growing them with kids, plants produce fruit throughout the summer and children will love to pluck them right off the plant, wash and eat! If your kids have yet to plant and care for a fruit or vegetable, strawberries are a perfect choice for their first gardening experience. Kick off this gardening season with your kids and get growing strawberries!

Vita Orlando Sinopoli

Secretary at North Intermediate; published "From My Bakery Perch"

WILMINGTON - Vita Orlando Sinopoli, age 89, of Wilmington and Dennis, MA, died peacefully surrounded by her loving family on March 18, 2014.

Vita was born in Fitchburg, MA, on December 11, 1924; she was the cherished daughter of the late Peter and Lucy Orlando. Vita was raised and educated in the North End of Boston, following her graduation from High School; Vita continued her education at Boston Clerical School earning a secretarial degree.

Vita married the "love of her life" William J. Sinopoli on October 2, 1949; Vita and Will shared more than 56 years of marriage, enjoyed a wonderful family, and made countless memories to share with generations to come. Will's passing in 2005 left a void in her heart; he was truly her best friend.

Vita and Will moved to Wilmington in 1958 where they raised their three children; Vita Marie, Donna, and Bill. Vita was a very devoted mother who loved her family unconditionally and was always so proud of their accomplishments. When Vita became a "mother-in-law" and then a "Nonnie" and finally a "Great-Nonnie" she couldn't have been prouder. Vita loved expanding her family and she welcomed everyone with open arms.

Vita was an amazing cook and baker; she enjoyed sharing her favorite dishes and recipes with her family and friends, and always had a house full for a Sunday dinner. Vita cherished every moment spent with her family, she enjoyed family holidays, vacations, or just getting together for a summer weekend on Cape Cod; she just loved being with her family.

Prior to retiring, Vita worked for the Wilmington School Department and was the secretary at the North Intermediate School for more than 18 years. Vita was much more than the secretary; she was a "second mother" to a student in need, a taxi driver if they missed the bus, a banker if they didn't have lunch money, and the "go to person" for every teacher, custodian, and principal. Vita had a great work ethic and she was very well loved and respected by the faculty as well as the students.

Vita and Will retired to their home on Cape Cod in 1983 where they enjoyed a slower pace at life. Vita spent time writing and painting. Vita became a well-known author throughout the North End of Boston when she published her book "From My Bakery Perch", which captured her life growing up in the North End and sharing some of her family's favorite recipes.

Vita and Will returned "home" to Wilmington in 2001 to be closer to their family and especially their grandchildren, whom they adored.

Vita will be fondly remembered for her kindness and consideration of others. Vita's love and devotion for her family and friends was always evident and she was always there to lend a hand. Vita was a wonderful wife, mother, mother-in-law, daughter, sister, nonnie, friend, and neighbor who will be dearly missed by all.

Vita was the beloved wife of the late William J. Sinopoli, devoted mother of Vita Marie Graham and her husband Ric, Donna Meuse and her husband Ken, and William Sinopoli and his wife Darlene all of Wilmington. Loving "Nonnie" of Michael and Patrick Graham, Kristina Meuse and her husband Al Alpuerto, Matthew Meuse, Bridget Haranas and her husband Mark, Bill and Bob Sinopoli, Great-Nonnie of Brett Skipper and Makaela Meuse, Rose-Vita and Amelia-Hope Alpuerto, and Summer Haranas. ## Teens in Crisis

Helping our youth cope

BY SHARON ADELMAN CROWLEY
Town Crier Correspondent
Sharon@YourTownCrier.com

Facing daily life challenges can be hard to manage for some teens. The American Psychological Association (APA) reports that in a 2013 survey, unhealthy stress levels were highly common among teens, especially during the school year. According to the survey, the number one source of stress was school, followed by acceptance into college, and life choices post-graduation. Teens are less likely than adults to connect the effects of stress with physical and mental health, according to the APA. Yet they report symptoms similar to adults. Over a one-month period, teens reported that they felt overwhelmed, cried, lost sleep, overate, skipped meals, and/or complained of stomach aches or digestive issues.

While some amount of stress is normal, high levels of prolonged stress can lead to more serious issues, including behavioral problems. A few warning signs to be aware of: constant anger, over-reaction, sudden or unexplained drop in grades, violent acts, expressing thoughts of suicide, and/or the use of drugs or alcohol.

"If a parent or guardian is concerned about their child, they should contact their pediatrician or primary care doctor for guidance," said Tewksbury School Resource Officer, Kathy McLeod. "Additionally, they should notify the school of their concerns so they can provide support to the parent and child, as well as be on the lookout for any concerning behavior."

If the parent or guardian feels there is an immediate concern for their child's wellbeing, McLeod adds, they can and should contact the police department right away. "We can always provide assistance."

School Resource Officer Kathy McLeod and Juvenile Officer Mike Sheehan are prepared to help the community. "These officers and my entire staff are always readily available to assist parents and guardians who have questions or who have children in crisis," said Tewksbury Chief of Police, Timothy Sheehan.

To decrease instances of crisis, it is important to remind teens that help is available to them during the school day.

"Our guidance staff and our nurses are excellent resources for any student who is in need. We count on their experience as well as their expertise," said Wilmington High School Principal, Linda Peters. She invites parents and guardians to call whenever a situation may impact a child's life in school. "We can always direct them to appropriate professionals," she said. "There are protocols in place for a variety of situations which may arise."

The administrative team at Tewksbury Memorial High School also has an open door policy to support students. "Students need caring and approachable adults; I believe that tone is set right from the administrative team," said TMHS Principal, Brenda Theriault-Regan.

"On a day-to-day basis, TMHS students know they can rely on their guidance counselor, school psychologist, school social worker, school nurse, advisor, and coaches. We also have a student crisis team (comprised of most of the people listed above) that meets every other week to keep each other abreast of student concerns and monitor student progress."

Schools also have information to help parents obtain outside assistance for a child in crisis. Several pamphlets with options and contact information are available in the guidance office, as well as contact information for state run agencies and programs.

A handful of crisis centers around the country recognize the difficulty in reaching out for help and offer assistance through texting - the medium most favored by youth.

The Crisis Text Line counsels teens via text, providing free, 24/7 emotional support in any type of crisis.

Teens can text "LISTEN" to 741-741 or visit the website for more information: crisistextline.org/get-help-now.

The Get Help Now page also provides crisis info for depression, suicide, dating abuse, domestic violence, child abuse, eating disorders and more. Hotline founder Nancy Lublin hopes to make the service as well-known as 911.

For overwhelmed youth who feel running away from home may be the answer, The National Runaway Safeline is a 24-hour, confidential, free, live chat service. The service is also for youth who have a runaway friend looking for help or ready to return home. Call 1-800-RUNAWAY or visit 1800runaway.org.

Strongwater Farm (formerly T.H.E. Farm) has a new program for youth facing adversity. Stable Friendships provides interactive activities that develop trust, relationships, and recreation. Learning how to care for horses is an emotional catharsis, boosting self-esteem, which in turn can reduce anxiety and improve rapport-building.

For more information, visit: strongwaterfarm.org/programs.

"Communication is key for parents," said Wilmington Police Department Lt. Brian Pupa. "They must do their best to try to maintain an open line of communication with their children. Also, parents should watch for changes in their children's behavior and changes in friends that they associate with. Parents need to trust their instincts when it comes to their children. They know their children the best, and if they believe that something is wrong or their child is in crisis, then they are most likely right."

Learning to Cope

Giving Teens the Skills to Last a Lifetime

BY SHARON ADELMAN CROWLEY
Town Crier Correspondent
Sharon@YourTownCrier.com

Experts agree, stress in teens should not be ignored. As teens transition into adulthood, they benefit from shared decision-making and autonomy. Parents and guardians can role model problem solving by working together to create solutions. This helps the teen recognize that different choices are always available. Life does not need to appear hopeless. When a teen learns to problem solve, they gain a life-long skill set to use throughout high school and beyond.

The American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry (AACAP) sites the following examples of teen stress:

- school demands and frustrations
- negative thoughts and feelings about themselves
- changes in their bodies
- problems with friends and/or peers at school
- unsafe living environment/neighborhood
- separation or divorce of parents
- chronic illness or severe problems in the family
- death of a loved one
- moving or changing schools
- taking on too many activities or having too high expectations
- family financial problems

Teens who learn coping skills feel more in control because they have more choices when responding to stress. Parents can take a proactive role in monitoring stress levels, actively listening to their teen's concerns, and supporting an appropriate balance of school, work, and social activities.

AACAP recommends that teens follow these guidelines to help reduce stress:

- Exercise and eat regularly
- Avoid excess caffeine intake which can increase feelings of anxiety and agitation
- Avoid illegal drugs, alcohol and tobacco
- Learn relaxation exercises (abdominal breathing and muscle relaxation techniques)
- Rehearse and practice situations which cause stress. One example is taking a speech class if talking in front of a class makes you anxious
- Learn practical coping skills. For example, break a large task into smaller, more attainable tasks
- Decrease negative self-talk: challenge negative thoughts about yourself with alternative neutral or positive thoughts. "My life will never get better" can be transformed into "I may feel hopeless now, but my life will probably get better if I work at it and get some help"
- Learn to feel good about doing a competent or "good enough" job rather than demanding perfection from yourself and others
- Take a break from stressful situations. Activities like listening to music, talking to a friend, drawing, writing, or spending time with a pet can reduce stress
- Build a network of friends who help you cope in a positive way

Six Surprising Ways to Beat Allergy Season this Year

(StatePoint) From watery, itchy eyes to unbearable congestion, allergies can certainly ruin one's day, or even the entire season. But, there's no reason to remain indoors in beautiful weather, say experts.

"One over-looked approach towards feeling well lies in prevention," says Lisa Metzger, PhD.

With that in mind, Metzger is offering six allergy-fighting tips:

- Get exercise. It may sound counterintuitive to go outside if you suffer from airborne allergies, but moderate exercise is known to strengthen the body's immune response. Just be sure to watch the pollen count, and when it's low squeeze in a brisk walk. If pollen count is high, head to the gym instead.
- Wash up. Use baby shampoo to wash your face and eye area in the shower. During allergy season, sweat can trap the pollen and irritants in the creases of the face where they are the most irritating. Baby shampoo is a safe alternative to wash away the dirt, sweat and symptoms of allergy season.
- Consider natural supplements shown in published research to help strengthen the immune system. Allergies can be described as being caused by the immune system over-reacting to harmless particles (like pollen). It is smart to strengthen your immune system by getting proper sleep and managing your stress. Sometimes that is easier said than done; so taking a natural supplement shown to strengthen the immune system can help.

• Limit dairy. Dairy causes the creation of phlegm, which can increase the intensity of allergy symptoms like runny nose, sore throat and cough.

• Change your diet. Incorporate natural antihistamines into your meals. Look for foods that contain flavonoids, such as tomatoes and blueberries, as well as Vitamin A found in green leafy vegetables and squash.

• Use a saline spray for your nose. This may not sound like much fun, but using an inexpensive saline spray or rinse is an effective way to flush pollen out of your nose. Saline sprays can be purchased at any local pharmacy. As an alternative, use a neti pot salt-water rinse.

"Your immunity affects every aspect of the day, from work performance to emotional well-being," says Metzger. "By taking proactive efforts for better health, you'll be less likely to miss out on life this allergy season."

Boston Metro Hi-Railers Model Railroad Club

Spring Open House, April 5

WILMINGTON - The Boston Metro Hi-Railers (BMHR) is an O-Gauge model railroad club located at 5 Waltham Street in Wilmington, Massachusetts. It is a nonprofit, community club that has the largest three rail O-Gauge model train layout in Massachusetts. The club will have an open house on Saturday, April 5th from 10am to 4:00 p.m.

The club will be displaying significant new construction on its large layout. In addition it will have new layouts for children. This will allow twice as many spaces for children to operate trains with adult supervision. The photo shows John and his mother Erin from Wilmington, among other youngsters, at the children's layout.

Food and refreshments, as in the past, will be available from 12 to 3:00 P.M. Refreshments are not included in the entrance fee, which will be $10 per family, 5.00 per individual and free admission for all children under $5, when accompanied by an adult.

SPECIAL DISPLAY OF PRESIDENTIAL TRAINS

Along with its usual component of freight and passenger cars, the club will be displaying and running model trains used by the Presidents since the 1940's. This will include many famous trains and special Presidential observation cars. This is the only time to our knowledge that a display of specific Presidential trains have run or been displayed at any open house.

The display includes the famous Southern train that frequently carried Franklin Roosevelt from Washington to Warm Springs, Georgia, during his term as President. This train included the Presidential rail car, the Ferdinand Magellan. The Magellan was especially rebuilt for President Roosevelt during World War two. The refit included bullet proof windows, heavy gauge steel body, and steel tracks encased in cement in the under carriage. This was all to protect the President from attack during the war. The car weighed almost 300,000 lbs. It was pulled by a P.S. 4 Pacific engine, though it sometimes, if it had a full load of passenger cars, it required two engines to pull the train. It was also used as Roosevelt's funeral train in 1945. The locomotive is currently on display at the Smithsonian Museum in Washington D.C.

When he assumed the Presidency on Roosevelt's death, Harry Truman began using the Ferdinand Magellan though it was frequently pulled by Baltimore and Ohio locomotives. When President Truman ran his whistle stop campaign country wide in 1948, he travelled in the Ferdinand Magellan. He spoke from the back of the car to hundreds of thousands of people across the nation. It became the most famous railcar in American History. It is currently displayed at the Gold Coast Railroad Museum in Florida. The railcar was also used by President Ronald Regan for a small part of his 1984 campaign for re-election.

The "Whistle stop" campaign was especially effective for Truman since it allowed him to campaign in downstate Republican and farm communities in Illinois, Ohio and the farm areas of California. On election night Truman carried those three states by a small margin because of his rail stop visits to towns never before visited by a Democratic President. Those states provided his margin of victory in an historical upset.

The Ferdinand Magellan was used for many non-political events over the later 40's and early 50's. It carried President Truman and Winston Churchill to Westminster College in Fulton, Missouri in 1946, where Churchill made his famous 'Iron Curtain' speech about the spread of communism in Eastern Europe.

We will have the Chesapeake and Ohio train that carried Dwight Eisenhower to California, mostly on vacations. On the back of the train is the Santa Fe business car that was used by President and Mrs. Eisenhower. The train was used in 1969 as the President's funeral train, with his steel army issue casket carried in one of the baggage cars. It took him to his home state of Kansas where he was laid to rest at the Eisenhower Museum.

Amtrak has been used to carry the Georgia 300 for several recent Presidents. Presidents Carter, Clinton and President Obama all used this car. President Obama used it as his Inaugural car in 2009, as it traveled from Philadelphia, Baltimore, picking up the Vice-President in Wilmington, Delaware along the way and arriving at the capital for the Inauguration.

In addition, we will be displaying several presidential limousines. One that was used by Franklin Roosevelt, another used by President Truman and President Eisenhower and the latest limousine, known as the Beast, used by President Obama. The Obama car has many safety and protective additions included.

We also have a model train that President Kennedy traveled to the Army/ Navy game in 1961. The train is pulled by one of the largest GG1 Locomotives in the dark green of the Pennsylvania railroad. Ironically the same car that carried President Kennedy to the game carried the casket of his brother Robert Kennedy from Washington to New York in 1968.

Avoid Netflix scam artists

Scammers have found another opportunity to steal personal information from consumers. A new phishing scam has surfaced targeting Netflix subscribers.

Users that are targeted will be led to a phony webpage that may resemble the real Netflix login page. The Netflix user will enter their account information and the fake website will claim that the user's account has been suspended. A fake customer service number is provided and a "representative" recommends the user download the "Netflix support software," which is remote login software that gives the fake representative full access to the user's computer.

There are three key indicators consumers should look for that show the email involved in this scam is not actually from Netflix: First, the phone number is not Netflix. Instead, the number belongs to a call center in India. Second, the webpage is a pop up. And third, the "representative" wants to log into your computer via remote software.

Here are some tips on how to avoid this scam and others like it:

Never let someone log into your computer remotely. When someone logs in, they can do anything you can do on your computer. They can access anything including personal and financial information.

Do not click links in emails. It is better to type the address in the search bar manually.

If the URL seems odd, do not continue to go to the site. If it is a scam, it will most likely have an unusual URL. It will likely contain a common name but be accompanied by jumbled letters or numbers.

Always look up the business' phone number on their website. If you need to call a business, look it up on their official website. This will ensure that you are calling a legitimate number.

To be named to the Dean's List at Plymouth State, a student must achieve a grade point average between 3.5 and 3.69 during the fall semester and must have attempted at least 12 credit hours during the semester. These credit hours must be in courses that earn grade points and the student must have completed all such courses attempted.

Emma Garrity, a 7th grader at the Wilmington Middle School, received the John F. Kennedy "Make A Difference Award" at the J.F.K. Presidential Library and Museum on March 13, 2014. She was among one hundred middle school students from across Massachusetts who were nominated by their teachers or principal and recognized for their outstanding contributions to their school, neighborhood or community through their volunteer work.

Beginning at age 10, she has volunteered at various activities in my program such as TOPS soccer, TOPS basketball, Easter Egg hunt and Horribles Parade. She also helped out at the Catholic Communities of Wilmington and South Tewksbury Religious Education office and currently tutors one day a week in Ms. Lamont's 4th grade class at the West. She is also an active member of the Sons of Italy Junior Lodge. courtesy photo nosed with pancreatic cancer."

Marra went in to describe Patterson as helpful and kind during their many transactions with the bank. Marra opened an account for a trust for the Estate of John Watson prior to his death. When he passed away in August 27, 2011, Patterson attended the wake and "was seemingly so supportive and caring. She even gave me her private cell phone number the next week and said if I had any questions or problems with the account to call her directly and she would help me."

Just one week after Watson's death, Patterson made her first withdrawal of $90,000 by forging Marra's name.

"Her betrayal of my trust was unbelievable, especially at a time when I was grieving John's loss and trying to cope with so many things," said Marra. "I simply cannot believe that anyone could be so heartless and dishonest, as to steal from someone at a time of such loss and grief. She used my naivety and trust to her greedy advantage. She is a sad excuse for a human being."

Colleen Cronin, a former Wilmington resident, also stood among the victims impacted by Patterson's treachery.

In Cronin's case, her grandparents opened CD's for all their granddaughters to act as dowry's, fulfilling a tradition in the family. Her grandmother walked to the bank every week to deposit funds earned as a hairdresser. Her grandfather, the Senior Director of Labor Relations for the Boston and Maine Railroad for 47 years, also added deposits. Patterson was their banker.

"What bothered me the most was the egregious abuse of power on Elaina Patterson's behalf and the offensive gesture of actually having the gall to bring my grandfather muffins while he lay in the I.C.U. He died not long after her visit," said Cronin. "It made me furious that she would have the ability to look him in the eye and know all the while that she had stolen thousands of dollars up to a year in advance from this frail and gracious man. She didn't visit him because she is a sweet, sentimental woman. She is not kind or decent. As far as I'm concerned, she was trying to figure out how much more time she had to cover her tracks before she was exposed."

"I am not angry with Elaina Patterson. I don't care about the money. I feel sorry for her because I would rather have the love of my family and the trust that we share than any amount of money. She will not know what that is worth and that is a crime of its own sort."

Cronin told the Town Crier outside the courtroom Monday that she noticed several fraudulent withdrawals from her account after receiving a penalty notice for early withdrawals from CDs. She noticed that the signatures on the transactions did not match her own and lodged a complaint with Bank of America in the fall of 2011.

Tucker's Starts Delivery Service

has free delivery, but they must be given advanced notice, she said.

And this service is unique to the area.

"We're the only ones who [who do delivery] in Wilmington at the moment," she said. "They have a delivery service in some towns."

She said they modeled theirs after some liquor stores in Boston.

And they're going to expand.

"We will be doing delivery during football season on Sundays," she said.

Tucker's opened on July 4, and it is located on 335 Main Street.

"We're basically a friendly neighborhood liquor store," she said, specifically mentioning their craft beer, interesting wines, and friendly staff.

She also said that they do tastings on Friday and Saturday nights, from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.

According to their Facebook page, their hours on Monday through Wednesday are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. They're open until 11 p.m. from Thursday through Saturday.

O'Connell seeks second term

"I've really enjoyed being a collaborator and a team player on the Board," she said. "We've had a productive working relationship."

She also praised both Jeff Hull and Michael Caira, noting that she has a "tremendous amount of respect" for them.

She listed Wilmington's conservative finances, its lack of user fees, its strong tax position, and its high school project as some important achievements.

And she added that "the town as a whole is always looking for ways to improve."

"We've made quite a bit of progress [with] the high school building project," she said. The town, too, will "continue the major projects and the capital investments."

The Yentile Farm project, in which she is involved, "is in the design phase."

She said she'd like to see the town "look at grant funding."

Also, Wilmington should remain "an attractive place for business to come."

"We have the commercial space. I'd like to see it filled, and I'd like to see it utilized," she said.

O'Connell again reiterated her excitement "at the prospect of continuing another term," especially since "Wilmington has been [her] home."

"I'm really looking forward to the next three years and all of the great things to come," she said.

The Board of Selectmen race became unopposed when Mark Nelson, a candidate, decided not to return his nomination papers.

Selectman Michael McCoy, a more-than-twenty year veteran of the Board, is also seeking re-election.

Bjork makes bid for school committee

years away from joining her siblings in the Wilmington School system.

"Had Leslee Quick chosen to seek re-election, I would not be running, but would be supporting her. She's been a valuable School Committee member for the last six years. With her departure, however, I thought the time was right to step forward."

Bjork identified the PARCC implementation, the search for a new superintendent, and the completion of the high school project as the School Committee's most pressing goals.

And, as a member, he'd "help foster a safe and comfortable learning environment in all of our schools; where every student will have access to a quality education that will prepare him or her adequately for whatever challenge they choose to engage upon graduation."

Bjork explains that his experience as a reporter and editor made him "intimately familiar with the structure and the purview of the School Committee," which is why he thinks he'd be a great fit. He could also see himself fitting in with the Board.

"I am acquainted with everyone currently on the Committee, and look forward to the opportunity of joining them," he said. "While we may not all agree on every issue, I do believe that everyone on the Committee is committed to working together for the sole purpose of benefitting the school system."

Bjork is a Wilmington native, and he feels "fortunate to have been able to keep my roots in Wilmington and to raise my family here."

He's also an active citizen. "I am an active member, and a past president, of the Wilmington Rotary Club. I serve on the Executive Board of the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library, and am additionally serving on the Library's Strategic Planning Committee," he wrote. "I have previously served as a Board Member for Wilmington Family Counseling, and helped interview and hire the current Director of that organization."

"I am committed to this town, to its residents, and to its students," he added.

Tasheva wins 'The Best of Schools' in show

Masconomet Regional High School junior Isabelle Yabe has been named Grand Prize Award Winner for her piece "Japanese Heritage" in this year's 6th Congressional District High School Art Show.

Hristina Tasheva, "World Turner" was the "Best of Schools" winner for Wilmington.

The awards were presented Saturday, March 8, by U.S.

Representative John F. Tierney at Montserrat College of Art's 301 Gallery, 301 Cabot Street, Beverly. The exhibit included 124 pieces from 25 different high schools and one homeschooled submission.

The exhibition was juried by Chris Van Allsburg, a Caldecott Medal winning author and illustrator whose books The Polar Express and Jumanji, are among his 15 publications, and Greg Bokor, a designer who is the founder and CEO of Cloud Factory, who has done work with such major global brands as Buick, Pepsi, Target, American Eagle and many others. The competition was open to high school students from public and private schools within the 6th District of Massachusetts, as well as high school students homeschooled within the district.

Patterson pleads guilty

her attorney at the defendant's table. She wore all black and clutched a wad of tissues in her hands.

Court documents say the 54-year-old Patterson stole from 31 investors and customers at the Reading bank where she worked from 1999 until 2011. The scheme went undetected as the branch shifted from a BankBoston, to a Fleet Bank, to a Bank of America. Bank of America alerted law enforcement in November 2011 after one victim questioned transactions on legal certificate's of deposit on a day when Patterson was out of the office.

Prosecutors say Patterson personally benefitted greatly from the scheme. From March 2002 to June 2010 she made transfers totaling approximately $1 million, and her monthly expenditures far exceeded her and her husband's income. She used the money to purchase luxury cars (Mercedes SUVs, Lexuses, and Cadillac Escalades), extravagant vacations (including the Ritz, the Mirage, and a penthouse suite at the Bellagio in Las Vegas), home improvements, and college and private school tuition for her children.

Patterson's lawyer says she eventually cooperated with authorities once the scam was uncovered, though prosecutors state she initially resigned from her position with the bank and denied allegations.

After the clerk read the charges, Middlesex Superior Court Judge Peter M. Lauriat questioned Patterson about her change in plea. During that time the court learned more about the accused. Patterson has a slight hearing problem, graduated from Malden High School in 1978 but did not attend college, and has three children, the youngest just 19 years old. Patterson cried several times while the 31 charges were read and when talking about her children.

Many of her victims were family members - cousins, in-laws, aunts and uncles. Summary information on each charge read by the Special Assistant Attorney General Molly Parks and victim impact statements showed a diabolical side of Patterson, who at times barely spoke above a whisper in the courtroom.

Patterson sold her scheme as a special opportunity for high-level investors and corporations, offering high interest accounts earning 10-15 percent returns. She said that due to her position at the bank, she could make them available for friends and family.

In the course of her scheme, several of her victims deposited lottery winnings, took out six figure mortgages and home equity lines of credit. She generated false 1099 forms and fabricated sham interest, on which her victims paid taxes to the IRS and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The AG's Office began an investigation in November 2011 after Bank of America referred the matter during its initial internal investigation. Patterson worked as a personal banker at a bank branch in Reading, which was initially Bank of Boston, and later became Fleet Bank and then Bank of America. Between July 1999 and September 2011, Patterson made approximately $6 million in fraudulent transactions involving 31 investors and customers.

She convinced 15 family members and friends to invest nearly $4.5 million as a part of this scheme, and that she issued fake certificate of deposit receipts and Form 1099s on bank forms to make the investments appear legitimate. In a number of instances, Patterson set up accounts in the investors' names without their knowledge, put her own address on the accounts, deposited the investors' funds, and used the money both to fund payments to other investors and to funnel money into her personal accounts.

Further investigation revealed that beginning in 2009, Patterson began stealing money from the accounts of customers, many of them elderly, in order to conceal her previous theft from investors.

In the end, investigators uncovered a total of approximately $6 million in fraudulent transactions. Patterson made payments back to customers and investors of almost $3.8 million, leaving the total net theft at more than $2.1 million.

A Middlesex County Grand Jury returned indictments against Patterson on June 24, 2013. She was arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court on July 16, 2013. She pleaded guilty and was sentenced in Middlesex Superior Court today.

Parks indicated that Bank of America returned the money of most of the investors. Civil litigation is pending and, in some cases, settlements reached remain under non-disclosure agreements.

Malatesta helps Jr. Bruins take home title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
WILMINGTON -- Zach Malatesta has always liked a challenge.

From the time he was five or six years old starting out in the Wilmington Youth Hockey Buzzers program, to playing the next year at Mites before moving on to more elite competition against older players, he has always been driven to get better and move on to the next level to test his skills against even better competition.

That competitive spirit still holds true today. The Wilmington High School junior helped lead the Boston Junior Bruins Premier Hockey team to the USPHL Premier League championship this past week. That comes after spending last season with the U-18 version of the Junior Bruins, and his freshman season playing elite prep school hockey at the Pingree School.

"At every level, he has responded to every challenge."

"When I was younger I was playing against kids who were older than me," Malatesta said. "I always knew I was a good player, but I just loved hockey so much I always wanted to move up to challenge myself. That is the only way you can get better, is to play better competition and point out your weaknesses so you can work on them."

Undoubtedly there are still some weaknesses in Malatesta's game, as after all he is still a 17-year old learning the game. But those weaknesses were few and far between this season, as Malatesta was one of the Bruins top defensemen as they rolled to the regular season title in the Premier Division. He took his game to an even higher level in the post season where he tallied three goals and four assists to help lead the Bruins to a 6-0 post season record as they swept all three playoff series to capture the Dineen Cup as champions of the USPHL Premier League.

It's not that Malatesta did not have a fine regular season, as he logged some big minutes and scored three goals to go along with 13 assists, but the post-season was even better with Malatesta scoring a goal in each playoff series, including a big one in the Bruins 4-3 win over the New Jersey Hitmen in Game 1 of the best of three series in the Dineen Cup finals. The Bruins would go on to win the championship with a 5-4 victory the next day.

"The goal against New Jersey was the big one," Malatesta said. "All of the other ones did not matter once we got to the finals. We had a big crowd there cheering for us so to get a goal in that kind of game was huge."

Malatesta's first goal of the post-season came when he scored the first goal of the game in the Bruins 7-0 series clinching win over the Portland Junior Pirates in the first round of the playoffs.

The goal against Portland was the first post-season junior hockey goal of Malatesta's career, and despite all that he has accomplished at multiple levels of hockey, it provided a thrill that in some ways not even the big one against New Jersey could match.

"It felt great," Malatesta said. "To get a goal in the playoffs was a big thrill, especially at that point in the game to make it 1-0."

Malatesta's best two game stretch of the playoffs probably came in the semi-finals when the Bruins swept the Islanders Hockey Club and Malatesta had a goal and three assists in the two games. Even Malatesta himself was at somewhat of a loss to explain the scoring outburst.

"Sometimes you just get lucky, I guess," Malatesta said. "I was just excited for the playoffs because it was a new start. I was not real happy with my regular season so I was very happy with how the playoffs turned out. Sometimes you just get lucky and the puck goes in."

While Malatesta certainly took his game to another level with his playoff performance, he was not alone as the entire Bruins team was even better than expected in the post season. After finishing first in the regular season, they were obviously the favorites heading into the post-season, but going 6-0 and outscoring their opponents 20-6 over the first two rounds was something that not even the most optimistic of Bruins' followers could have predicted.

"I was actually pretty worried heading into the playoffs because toward the end of the season we were not playing too well," Malatesta said. "But we got into the playoffs and we all just put it together. We all wanted to do it and our team chemistry was unbelievable. I can't believe we went 6-0."

But go 6-0 they did, and Malatesta is hoping that his playoff performance as well as that of his team will open some doors toward his ultimate goal of playing Division I college hockey.

He has already caught the attention of several scouts with his play in previous years, particularly with his play at last June's Select-17

Tournament where he was selected as an all-star among a group of some of the top prospects in the country.

Just prior to the Select-17 Tournament he was drafted by Moncton of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League, considered to be the highest level of junior hockey in North America, from which many NHL players are eventually drafted. But Malatesta is still hoping to keep his game in the United States next season before moving on to a Division 1 college after graduation, as he has been contacted by schools such as UMass Lowell, Holy Cross and Cornell.

"Right now college is what I am striving for," Malatesta said. "There were a lot of scouts and colleges at the playoff games, especially in the finals, so hopefully I showed some people that I can play in Division 1."

Wherever Malatesta plays next he knows he will have tremendous family support as he has throughout his career from his parents Kelly and Robert, as well as his siblings, sister Jordan, a member of the Women's Crew team at UMass Amherst, sister Devyn, a sophomore soccer player at Wilmington High and brother Domenic, a freshman with the Wilmington High Hockey team.

"My parents have always been great encouraging me and pushing me to do the best I can, and also traveling around with me and coming to my games and everything," Malatesta said. "And me and my brother make each other better players because we are very competitive. Whether it was street hockey in the yard or whatever I never liked to lose to him. We were always able to push each other."

As of right now, it looks like that push may lead all the way to Division 1 college hockey and beyond.

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Wentworth Institute of Technology sophomore Joe Hulme, a 2012 graduate of Tewksbury High is off to a great start this season, batting .394 with a home run and ten RBI's in the Leopards first ten games. Hulme's ten RBI's are second on the team, and he is also second on the team in runs scored (10), OBP (.487) and slugging (.515).

Manny Cabral of Tewksbury, a senior with the Daniel Webster College baseball team, went 1-for-3 in the Eagles loss to UMass Dartmouth on Saturday. This game came on the heels of the Eagles double-header sweep of Penn State Altoona on Friday where Cabral had an RBI in each game.

Clark University junior Keegan Callahan of Tewksbury and Austin Prep had a goal in the Cougars Lacrosse team's most recent game, a 7-6 loss to Skidmore College last Saturday. Callahan is off to a great start on the season with three goals and an assist in four games for the 3-1 Cougars.

Erik Kelly of Tewksbury, a 2011 graduate of Bishop Guertin got his season off to a great start for the Franklin Pierce Lacrosse team. After missing the first two games of the Ravens' season, the junior midfielder has scored in both games since his return to the lineup, including netting three goals and an assist in a 10-3 win over Saint Rose on Saturday.

Kelly's teammate at Franklin Pierce, fellow Tewksbury resident Dylan Leone had a goal in the Ravens 11-5 win over Post last Tuesday. The sophomore, a 2012 graduate of Shawshen Tech, has started all four games this season for the 3-1 Ravens.

Tewksbury residents Mike Pino and Don Berube have put up nearly identical statistics as the starting defenders for the Lasell College Lacrosse team. Pino, a 2012 graduate of Central Catholic, has secured seven ground balls and has a team leading five caused turnovers through the Lasers first five games of the season.

Berube, a 2010 graduate of Tewksbury High, has six ground balls to his credit, while joining Pino with five caused turnovers.

Rivier University junior Ryan Woolaver of Tewksbury, a 2011 graduate of Shawshen Tech, and now a member of the Rivier Lacrosse team, had an assist in the Raiders most recent game, an 8-4 loss to Saint Joseph's (ME.). Woolaver currently has two goals and three assists on the season.

Michelle Tully of Tewksbury, a junior attack with the Worcester State Lacrosse team has scored two goals in the Lancers first two games this season. Tully is already on pace to eclipse last year's season totals when she had 12 goals and three assists.

Framingham State freshman Tiffanie Marsh of Tewksbury got her college softball career off to a great start, going 3-for-5 with a double, triple and two runs scored from her leadoff position in her first collegiate game on Monday in an 11-4 win over Trinity. The 2013 graduate of Tewksbury High followed that up by going 3-for-4 with two more runs scored in her second game of the day on Monday, a 14-13 loss to Southern Maine.

Mount Ida freshman softball player Sam Laferriere, a 2013 graduate of Tewksbury High, went 2-for-3 with an RBI and a walk in the Mustangs loss to Wheaton (Ill.) back on Tuesday, March 11. Laferriere has played in seven of the Mustangs first eight games during her first year of collegiate play.

Meghan Sears of

MEGHAN SEARS

Tewksbury, a freshman infielder/pitcher on the Nichols College Softball team is batting .400 in the first six games of her collegiate career. The 2013 Central Catholic graduate is also off to a fine start in her pitching career, having allowed one earned run on four hits last Friday in a 3-2 Bison win over Nazareth.

Westfield State sophomore Jamie Ricciardi had a productive game for the Owls Softball team last Thursday in a win over Farmingdale State, going 1-for-2 with a Pair of RBI's. For the season, the Tewksbury resident and Arlington Catholic graduate is batting .286 with three RBI's in four games.

Salem State senior softball pitcher Lauren DiCredico, a 2010 graduate of Tewksbury High, picked up the win on Tuesday March 11 when the Vikings defeated Eastern Nazarene College by a score of 7-0. DiCredico scattered four hits, while walking none to improve to 2-1 on the season.

UMass Lowell Softball player Ally Greene, a 2011 graduate of Tewksbury High, had a pair of strong games recently, going 1-for-3 with two RBI's against LaSalle last Friday which followed up a game where she had two more RBI's in a 1-for-4 effort against Youngstown State last Thursday.

Former Tewksbury High star Allie Frazier, now a graduate student at the University of New England, is off to a hot start for the UNE Softball team, batting .278 with two doubles and a triple already to her credit after just six games this season.

Nor'easters, particularly last season when she led the team in runs scored (27) and stolen bases (15) while being named as an Honorable Mention All-Conference.

UMass Dartmouth Softball player Emily Pontes of Tewksbury had a hit against Saint Joseph's last Friday afternoon for her first hit of the season and followed that up with an RBI on Saturday against Smith College. Pontes, a junior infielder will be looking to duplicate her fine sophomore season when she led the Corsairs in batting average (.341), RBI's (23) and stolen bases (7).

Endicott College senior Alli Noyes, a 2010 graduate of Arlington Catholic had an RBI and a run scored in her first game of the season for the Gulls Softball team on Sunday in a 9-0 win over Bethany College of West Virginia on Sunday.

UMass Amherst freshman Cory Thomas, a 2013 graduate of Tewksbury High, ran the one-mile leg for the Minutemen's Distance Medley Relay team at the IC4A's Championship Meet on Saturday, March 8th at Boston University to close out his indoor season.

The relay team placed 13th

with a time of 10:12, and Thomas ran his one-mile leg of the medley in a personal best time of 4:10, surprising all in attendance, as he had been sidelined for three weeks with a foot injury.

Wilmington Athletes

Former Wilmington High Lacrosse star Peter Leighton has continued his fine play early in his college career, with five goals and six assists for the Regis College Lacrosse team. Leighton's 11 points place him second on the team in scoring. The 2013 Wilmington High graduate had a big game this past Friday with three goals and two assists in a 16-2 win over Thomas College.

Salem State freshman Tim Woods of Wilmington, a pitcher with the Vikings Baseball team, made his collegiate debut back on March 9, and looked very comfortable in doing so, pitching 3.2 innings, allowing no runs on four hits, while striking out three against Baldwin Wallace.

Nick Boutoures of Wilmington has done an outstanding job as a relief specialist for the UMass Lowell Baseball team, allowing four hits and just one run in 5.1 innings of work for the River Hawks. In his most recent outing last Friday, he pitched 1 1/3 innings and allowed just one hit in a 4-2 win over Binghamton. For the season Boutoures has an ERA of 1.69 with seven strikeouts in 5.1 innings.

Three locals help lead AC Girls Hockey team to state final

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
BOSTON — There were many heroes for the Arlington Catholic Girls Hockey team on their way to the Division 1 state championship game this past Sunday at the TD Garden where their season finally ended with a 2-1 loss to four-time defending state champion Duxbury.

But three of the biggest heroes for the Cougars all season long and in the state tournament in particular were local players from Wilmington and Tewksbury.

The Cougars were led to the state title game in large part thanks to the efforts of senior captain Maddy Roberts of and sophomore Mickey McLaughlin of Wilmington and junior Jessica Piracini of Tewksbury.

Roberts a defenseman for the Cougars, led the way for her team not on the score sheet, but with helping to have her team prepared on a nightly basis to take on the best teams in the state as they did in the state tournament when AC defeated Westford Academy, Winthrop/Lynn and Austin Prep on their way to the state finals.

JESSICA PIRACINI

"Maddy is a great kid. She has this personality about her that is always cool and she never lets her emotions get the best of her," Arlington Catholic coach Maggie Taverna said. "In the locker room she is the type of kid that the other kids want to be around. She is easy going, but on the ice she works really hard and pushes her teammates."

Roberts also holds a special place in Taverna's heart, as the coach is in her fourth year of coaching the Cougars, meaning that she has coached Roberts through her entire career with AC and has seen her improvement every season.

"I have been fortunate to have seen her play for four years," Taverna said. "She is one of just a few players that I have coached for all four years so we have a great bond. I am very proud of the player and person she has become."

Taverna has not known McLaughlin for nearly as long, as the forward is still just in her sophomore season. But McLaughlin has wasted little time in making her presence felt for both Taverna and her teammates, with five goals and five assists on the season and a big goal in the state tournament.

With AC clinging to a slim 1-0 lead in the second period of their first round game with Westford Academy McLaughlin potted a clutch score to make the score 2-0 and the Cougars coasted from there on their way to the 3-0 win.

Taverna says that McLaughlin — who played at WHS during her middle school days — earned that big post season goal as well as all of her other points this season.

"Mickey is the kind of kid who is not going to get a ton of goals per year, but she back checks hard and she fore checks hard," Taverna said. "She is a gritty player that every kid should want to be like. She works hard all over the ice, not just in the offensive end. She was a huge part of our team's success."

Piracini may have had the most successful season of all the locals, at least on the score sheet, as she was second on the team with 11 goals and 18 assists for 29 points, trailing only star forward Adriana Rossini who scored a remarkable 30 goals on the season to finish fourth in Division 1.

The only dilemma at times for Taverna at times this season was trying to decide if she should play her two star forwards on the same line.

"It would really depend on the game," Taverna said. "If we needed a goal I would put them on the same line, but I like to spread out the talent with them. They are the type of players that make other players around them better."

Piracini still has one season left with AC, and Taverna is grateful for that, but she also realizes that Piracini has a future in hockey once her high school days are over.

"Jess is a great kid in general and the other kids want to be around her," Taverna said. She is a very good hockey player.

She has the talent to play at the next level. She has been clutch for us this year and shown how talented she is."

Piracini's clutch play for the Cougars continued into the post season where she had two assists in the first round win over Westford and a big power play goal with 2:47 left in the quarterfinal game against Winthrop/Lynn to give the Cougars some much needed insurance in their 4-2 victory.

Her biggest contribution however, came in the state semi-finals against Austin Prep where she made a perfect pass to set up Rossini for the game winning goal just 1:26 into overtime.

"Jess is a kid we look for to put pucks in the net," Taverna said. "We expect her to produce for us and she came through in the clutch when we needed her to. She is a big part of our team and has been since her freshman year. It has been great to see her get even better as she has started to step out of her shell this season."

Piracini and McLaughlin will of course be back next year along with Rossini, giving the Cougars an excellent chance of returning to the Garden for fourth consecutive season, but Taverna knows her team will also be the contributions of Roberts and her fellow seniors.

"We are only losing three kids from this year's team which is the same amount we lost last season, but I think this year's seniors, including Maddy were more impactful. They contributed greatly to this year's team so they will be sorely missed, but it is nice to have so many players back."

Mite X-1 Hockey team remains busy on the ice

The Wilmington Mites X1 had a very busy week with grueling contests in Tewksbury and Lawrence against Arlington, as well as a friendly match with and against their X2 friends and rivals in Providence, Rhode Island.

Game one against Arlington was an instant classic.

Arlington jumped out to an early 3-0 lead in the first while Wilmington struggled to find their skating game.

The Cats finally found their way late in the first as Nathan Caples fired a pass to Madelynn Sainato who then sent Zachary Mackiel off to the races. Mackiel made it count, burying the first of his two goals on the day past the sprawling Arlington keeper.

Early in the second, Sainato and Caples paired up again. Nathan made a nifty move to the goalies left and finished strong to cut the lead to 3-2. Wilmington goalie Darion Considine held down the fort making several key stops, two of which came on breakaways, until the Cats could put the tying goal on the board about halfway through the period. Brennan Walsh circled behind the net and fired a pass across the crease to a perfectly positioned Gavin Russell. Russell wasted no time putting the biscuit into the basket and the game was tied at 3-3.

Arlington took the next face off right to the net and finished to make it 4-3, but Wilmington again clawed their way back into the game as Walsh put in an unassisted goal to send the teams into the third period tied.

The third period saw a series of dramatic turns and key plays on both ends of the ice. Patrick Hounsell, Nick D'Amico, and Kyle Gray each made tremendous hustle plays to thwart breakaway chances by the always dangerous Arlington team.

Gray and Hounsell were extremely strong on defense all day while D'Amico came all the way back from his center position to make his play. Aiden Guyette had one of his strongest games of the season, consistently stepping up to hold the puck in the offensive zone to give the Wildcats additional chances to whack one past the Arlington keeper. Zachary Mackiel put home a goal early in the third to knot the game up again, but Arlington kept pounding away and took a two goal lead late into the game.

Nathan Caples put his second one home with just under two minutes left to give the Cats a shot, but even with the goalie pulled, the Cats could not get the equalizer and fell 7-6.

Game two against Arlington was a playoff meeting between the same two teams. This game had all the drama of the first meeting and then some. Wilmington jumped out to an early lead playing in front of standout goalie Madelynn Sainato who was called upon to make several stops before the Wildcats were able to mount their attack.

Zachary Giardina was the offensive force in this game, scoring a natural hat trick to put the Wildcats ahead, 3-1.

Strong and capable defense was played by the defensive pairings of Kyle Gray with Nathan Caples and Patrick Hounsell with Zachary Mackiel. They should be very proud of their efforts as they were up against an Arlington team known for its bull rushing breakaway game and had to spend much of their energy chasing down and holding back a very talented pair of Arlington skaters all morning.

The strong work done by the forward line that included Gavin Russell, Aiden Guyette, Nick D'Amico, and Brennan Walsh cannot be discounted, although they were unable to put any goals past the Arlington net minder.

Their hard work kept Arlington in check and made life difficult for the Arlington goalie. Maddie Sainato made so many saves that the Arlington coaching staff felt obligated to deem her the best goalie they faced all year.

The other forward line, with Zack Giardina and Darion Considine on the wings and centered by Stephen Constantine put all of the Wildcat points on the board. Considine, Constantine, and Giardina each set up key goals in the game.

When Stephen Constantine took a pass from Giardina and scored to put the Cats up 4-2, it looked like the Cats would advance, but Arlington roared back, tied it late, and won it 5-4 in overtime on a disputed goal that instant replay was unable to overturn.

The Cats' season did not end with the league championship that they hoped for, but every one of the players, along with coaches Chris Gray, Jamie Caples, David Sainato, and Bob Mackiel should be proud of the dedication, effort, and development demonstrated by each member of the squad and staff.

RI Game

The Wilmington Wildcat Mites X1 and X2 teams played an exhibition game in front of a rowdy crowd last week in Providence, Rhode Island.

Goaltenders Matthew Newhouse and Maddie Sainato had to take on the challenges of facing shooters who not only knew their tendencies and weak spots, but also wanted to show off for the spirited crowd, make it on the jumbotron, and have their names announced followed by the classic Bruins' Whooooo!

Unfortunately for the skaters, the goaltenders were absolutely amazing. Sainato made saves with her toe, head, each of her pads, chest, left arm, glove, and one that glanced off of the hair hanging out of the back of her helmet. Newhouse was a little more orthodox, stopping 27 shots using the patented butterfly style along with a leaping, diving style that might come to be known as the Matty.

In front of Newhouse for Wilmington White, Darion Considine, Nolan Guthrie, and Devin Medeiros were fantastic. Each showed that they had taken their games to a higher level both on offense and defense and would have put points on the board if not for the play of Sainato. Cameron Splaine, Kyle Gray, and Ryan Flynn were notable for their quick first step and outright speed. Each has a great future in the game.

Aiden Guyette, Patrick Hounsell, and Zachary Mackiel also had standout games. Guyette dug hard for pucks in the corners and set up shooters in front repeatedly; Hounsell was his typical blue line force; and Mackiel took no prisoners of anyone who dared to try to get past him. His regular teammate Zachary Giardina can tell you that during this game, they were definitely sat on opposing benches.

Goals for Wilmington White were scored by Nicolas Spencer, Stephen Constantine, and Bruce Green Audette. Each of the goals was notable. Spencer broke free from the defense, deked the keeper, and made no mistake on his shot. Constantine consistently buzzed around the ice until he willed his way into putting the puck safely into the net.

Audette's goal followed a flurry of activity and he was right on the spot to make sure that his team put another score on the board.

Wilmington Blue lit up the scoreboard just a little bit more than their Wilmington White opponents. Sainato got to watch her teammates Nicolas D'Amico, Emma Flynn, and Dylan Mullarky push, shove, and dominate much of the play.

D'Amico, who has come to be known as a breakaway master, had several chances, but Newhouse stoned him each time. Flynn was strong at her own blue line, repeatedly clearing pucks out of danger and sending her teammates up toward the opposing goal. Mullarky demonstrated that he had progressed into becoming a strong and reliable player ready to take on any situation on the ice. C

Chris Smith and Jack Martinson might be chronologically young, but their hockey maturity is well beyond their years. They tuned out the crowd noise and stepped up to play unbelievable hockey on the biggest stage of their blossoming hockey careers. Jessie Martinson and Zachary Giardina each made amazing plays that the crowd buzzed about well after the game was over.

Martinson's speed and awareness are going to make her a force for years to come. Giardina had several chances, but none better than the one where he took a self pass off of the boards off to the races.

If not for a sick save by Newhouse and a diving play by Mackiel that drew the attention of the ice zebras, Zack effort might have ended up on SportsCenter.

Goal scorers for Wilmington Blue included Benjamin Doucette, Brennan Walsh, Bobby Dodge Jr., Gavin Russell, and Nathan Caples. Dodge's goal came off of a play where he split the defenders and used his speed and blistering shot to light the lamp. Doucette scored not once, but twice.

An impressive feat in any game, but Ben's effort was doubly impressive based on the competition that he was facing. Caples' goal was typical Nathan, weaving end to end in an Orr-like fashion. Walsh's goal came on the powerplay. He took the face-off and put it directly on net. While the goalie and defenders frantically searched for the puck, Brennan calmly pounded away in front of the net until he scored a blue collar goal, something that he has come to be known for this season. Gavin Russell's goal was the icing on the cake, literally! A one-timer blast, Russell's second goal in two days came on right on his seventh birthday!

Fourth Graders take home title

The Wilmington Fourth Grade Wilmington Boys Travel Basketball team ended the 2013-2014 seasons as the Shamrock Tournament Champs.

The young Wildcat squad had an impressive season collecting wins over Billerica, Lowell, Nashua, Reading, some notable highlights 25-9 overall record, 12-2 in the MVC league, 2013 Fundamentals Christmas Tournament champs and most recently capturing the 2014 Shamrock Tournament championship.

Wilmington 36 Billerica 33 As the Wildcats took the floor against rival Billerica; they felt like they had a point to prove. A week earlier the Wildcat squad fell to Pelham in the state tournament ending its impressive regular season.

It was not the way they wanted it to end so they decided to make a statement against a very talented and well coached Billerica squad. During the first half Billerica came out guns blazing and found themselves going up by ten points early in the first half.

Point Guard Tyler Rourke settled the Wildcats down and led the way for them with eight points, five rebounds and two steals. At the end of the first half the score was 20-10 in favor of Billerica.

In the second half the Cats came out on fire and took it to the Indians, leading the way was center Tyler Cardello with nine points, ten rebounds and four blocks; Willie Stuart with seven points, three assists and three steals; Tommy Mallinson with four points, four assists and three steals; Luke Murphy with two points and eight rebounds; Gavin Erickson with two points, five rebounds and three steals and Jack Rooney with two points, four rebounds and two steals.

Brian Duggan, Jack Malloy and Devon McLaughlin led the defensive attack in the second half challenging Billerica on every possession.

With two minutes left the cats found themselves down six and staged an unreal comeback. With two quick possessions they gave the ball inside to Tyler Cardello who made some impressive moves to the hoop and bringing the Billerica lead down to two.

After an unreal defensive play Tommy Mallinson came storming down the court and made a layup tying the game at 32-32. Billerica came back and got to the foul line only connecting on one free throw and with one minute left Tyler Rourke made a great move to the rim and scored on a layup putting the Cats up a point with one minute left.

At that point Billerica started to foul and put Willie Stuart at the free-throw line and Willie iced the game by sinking two free-throws. Mike Walsh had an unreal semifinal game but was sidelined due to an illness. Also missing from the game was Will Doucette and Andrew Scolastico.

The Wilmington Squirt 1's participated in the State Championships this weekend in Springfield with 11 other District winners. After sweeping District 10 with three straight wins, Wilmington advanced to the States. Wilmington won its first three games beating Watertown 5-1, Amherst 5-1, and South Coast 1-0. This placed them in a semi-final match-up against a well-known opponent from the Valley League's Elite Division, Triton. Wilmington's Squirt 1's are: Brendan Ardito, Matt Ardito, Sam Cedrone, Michael Daniels, Jason Davey, Maura Fiorenza, Riley Fitzgerald, Drew Gallucci, Derek Gallucci, James Kourkoutas, Peter Kourkoutas, Jimmy McCarron, Nate Packer, and Conor Peterson. # Mite 1 Hockey team takes home gold medals

Wilmington Youth Hockey's Mite 1 Bobcats announced loud and clear to all divisional foes, this weekend that they are a powerful force to be reckoned with.

The Bobcats participated in Billerica's Hallenborg St. Patrick's Day Tournament this past weekend, as well as facing off against the Tri-State AAA division leading Warriors in between tournament games. The Bobcats came out stating loud and clear that they are ready to make some noise in the upcoming Tri-State playoffs.

The Bobcats entered the Hallenborg tournament in the tough AAA division, and would have to face off against Woburn, Billerica, and Burlington.

A late Friday night game at 8pm against Woburn set the tone for the rest of the weekend. The Bobcats came out attacking everything that moved and at the end of the first period sturdy winger, Casey Robbins had potted a goal with an assist from Charlie Chirichiello to take a 1-0 lead. In the second period the Bobcats broke it open with four goals to take a 5-0 lead.

Defenseman Jake Perry let fly one of his trademark devastating shots to start the scoring in the second period. This was followed by two goals by hard skating Ella Cedrone. Her first goal was a team effort with assists going to Chirichiello and Perry, while her second was assisted by the speedy and shifty Mick Keogan.

The second period barrage was ended with a score from the stick of Mathew "runaway train" Dizoglio assisted by Mick Keogan. Keogan ended the game with two assists and some overall excellent puck carrying that controlled play for long periods.

During the entire game net minder, Griffin Carr consistently turned away any shots that got through the tough defense. Perry and Jacob Smith badgered any Tanner forward that came into the zone and quickly transitioned the play the other way, while the quick skating defensive pairing of James Caples and Jake Ciulla brought offensive pressure from the blue line.

In the third period the Bobcats continued their dominance with goals from winger Ryan Hayden, assisted by Dizoglio, and never-say-quit forward Jimmy Keck scored an unassisted goal to cap it off.

Game 1 of the tourney ended 7-0, and the Bobcats were off and running.

Game 2 had the Bobcats facing off against Tri-state divisional rival, Burlington, in a tightly contested battle. With Griffin Carr in net once again, the Bobcats were strong from the pipes out.

The first period ended scoreless after a goal by Hayden was called back by the officials. However, Hayden would not be deterred, as he scored later in the first period off an assist by Brian Barry after Barry displayed the incredible vision he's been playing the game with all season.

There was a slight let down by the Bobcats and the Burlington Jr. Devils scored three unanswered goals in the first. Burlington then scored again in the second. However the Bobcats don't know the meaning of quit as Barry streaked in on the Burlington net to make the score 4-2 off of great neutral zone transition pass from Jacob Smith.

The defensive core of Perry, Caples, Smith, and Ciulla was joined by speedy, puck handling defenseman Johnny Dalton. Together these five made the Devils work for every offensive chance.

In the third, Jake Perry went end to end and put one just under the cross bar to bring the Bobcats within one, at 4-3. For the remainder of the period the Bobcats pelted the Burlington goalie, but to no avail. The game ended with a Burlington win, but a clear statement that Wilmington was coming hard for a chance to win the tournament.

In Game 3 on Saturday night the Bobcat's took on host team, Billerica, with both fans and coaches dressed in their best Kelly green to celebrate St Paddy's Day! This game displayed a hard fought, two-way battle, but the Bobcats came out on top.

Offensive force, Mick Keogan potted two goals, both unassisted off of hard work and grit. One was in the first and the other in the third. While, Miss Ella Cedrone fired a shot that ricocheted off a Billerica player and into the net.

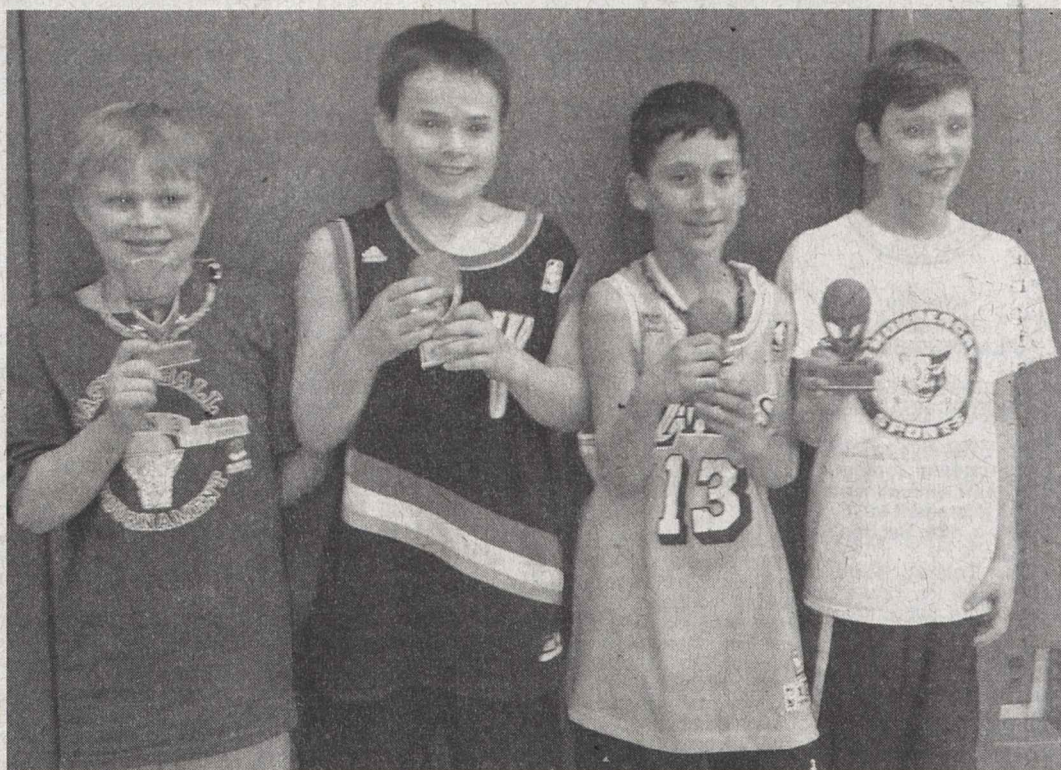

Throughout the clash multiple players made defensive and offensive plays to help the team to victory. Such as the hard forechecking of Jimmy Keck, Casey Robbins, and Brian Barry. There were outstanding plays in the defensive zone with quick transitions by Jake Ciulla and Jacob Smith.

While Jake Perry moved the puck out of the zone with good stick handling and James Caples forced everything wide of standout net minder, Griffin Carr. Offensively, there was tremendous back checking by Charlie Chirichiello, Ryan Hayden, and Mathew Dizoglio.

This 3-0 victory sealed a rematch against Burlington in the Championship game.

But before the Bobcats could go for tourney gold they had to deal with a Tri-state AAA division leading Warrior's team that they had not been able to beat all year. In an incredible battle that saw it all the Bobcats were able to pull out a nearly dominate 3-1 victory, sending shockwaves through the division.

Casey Robbins gave Griffin Carr a break in net and nearly pitched a shutout, while Carr changed to forward and saw no less than four breakaways with the puck. Jimmy Keck put on a hard nosed display of forechecking and disrupted the Warrior defense throughout the game. Jacob Smith frustrated numerous opposing forwards at the Bobcat blue line refusing to allow them entrance, and speedy defense-men Dalton and Caples consistently rushed the puck for offensive chances.

All of this led to a titanic showdown on Sunday night at the Hallenborg Arena between the Wilmington Bobcats and the Burlington Jr. Devils. The stands were filled to capacity and the old barn was really rocking as both team's supporters wanted victory.

Regardless of the outcome it was clear from the start that Wilmington had come to play. Net minder Griffin Carr put on a performance for the ages in net stopping nearly everything that came his way.

Much to the shock of the Burlington crowd, Wilmington drew first blood in the 1st period when Brian Barry streaked past the defense after being sprung on good neutral zone play by Dalton and an assist from Ryan Hayden. Several tremendous defensive plays followed as the combination of Jake Perry and Jacob Smith wouldn't let any Burlington plays come up the middle of the ice.

Forwards Jimmy Keck, Casey Robbins, and Charlie

Chirichiello forechecked the Devil's forwards back to their zone consistently. In the 2nd period Mathew Dizoglio blasted into the zone at full speed and potted a backhand past the Burlington goalie for a 2-0 lead.

In the third Burlington was able to get on the board, but the Bobcats held strong with great two-way plays led by Ella Cedrone and Ryan Hayden. With all players giving everything they had the Bobcats fought for their lives in the final minutes of the period, just missing on a couple of opportunities.

With just over a minute to play and with the Burlington goalie pulled the Bobcats dove in front of every puck and fought hard. On a nifty shift by a Burlington forward the Devils was able to tie it with one second left on the clock, sending the game to overtime.

As has become the hallmark of this spirited Bobcats team no one quit and no one gave in. Wilmington took to the ice 5-on-5 in the first OT period. Both teams played hard in their own defensive ends, but there were several rushes for both teams that ended with stingy goaltending.

There was a good rush by Johnny Dalton up the right wing side off a smooth pass by James Caples, but the Devils defense drove him wide. Later both Ryan Hayden and James Keck were on the verge of breakaways only to be thwarted at the last second. As the clock ticked to zero in the first OT, Griffin Carr faced a flurry of shots but turned every one away with nerves of steel.

The second OT saw play switch to 4-on-4 and the action was fast and heavy with neither team giving an inch of ice. Roughly two minutes into the second OT, Mathew Dizoglio rocketed into the Burlington zone and fired a point black shot just over the cross bar. The crowd roared at the high flying action.

The battle continued to rage back and forth. Roughly half way through the second OT Burlington fought it's way down the left wing boards and found a little free ice and was able to sneak one just past a diving goalie to take the win.

Although the Bobcat players were disappointed, the large Wilmington crowd gave them a long, well-earned standing ovation. Our team in blue showed true sportsmanship, lining up to shake hands and banging sticks for all of the Burlington players as they collected their gold medals.

Squirt 3's look to remain in first place

On March 9th the Wilmington Squirt 3's headed to Methuen to take on SMS and looked to continue their winning ways and keep their slot in first place.

The Wildcats started with a line of Colin Gates and Anthony Savage on the wings with Braydan Sanborn at center. The other offensive grouping had William O'Shea and Michael Sullivan on the sides with Thomas Dalton in the middle and Kevin Sullivan as the rotating forward.

On defense there was a grouping of Jake Chirichiello and Aidan Murphy with Owen Mitchell and Aydan Churchill as the other pairing. As always, Justin Finnegan manned the net.

The 'Cats dominated early on controlling most of time in the offensive zone and they finally capitalized at the 5:17 mark as Sanborn won the faceoff and got it over to Gates who put it home for the 1-0 lead after one period of play.

In the second period, O'Shea got on the board (with an assist from Robbins) at the 8:15 mark to make it 2-0. They continued to control most of the game and on those few occasions when the opposition mounted an attack, Chirichiello would stand firm down low and Finnegan was there to turn them away, no more so than with a nifty kick save at the 5:00 minute mark of the 2nd.

In the third period SMS was finally able to break through, but strong two-way play of the Wildcats shut them down the rest of the way and Gates was able to take a Sanborn pass and put home the empty net at the 11:45 mark to end the game 3-1.

The following week Wilmington was back at it, this time against North Andover, and again they were the first to score as Sanborn broke-out at center, deked the defenders and put it home at 8:28 to make it 1-0 after the first period.

In the second, Churchill, who moved from his traditional defensive spot, took a one-timer from Mitchell and ripped it past the goalie to make it 2-0. This goal was set up by the tremendous effort by Murphy to keep the puck in the offensive zone.

North Andover was able to answer that goal, but was turned away later in the period by yet another kick save by Finnegan. Another defender playing up got in on the action for Wilmington as Sullivan took assists from Robbins and Murphy and make it 3-1. It would remain that way as Finnegan came up with a big save at the buzzer to end the second period.

In the third, North Andover was able to cut the lead to 3-2, but once again the Wildcats answered at 6:52 on a goal from Sanborn with assists from Robbins and Dalton. Confident but not complacent with their lead the Wildcats put the clamps on any attack and wound up winning the game 4-2.

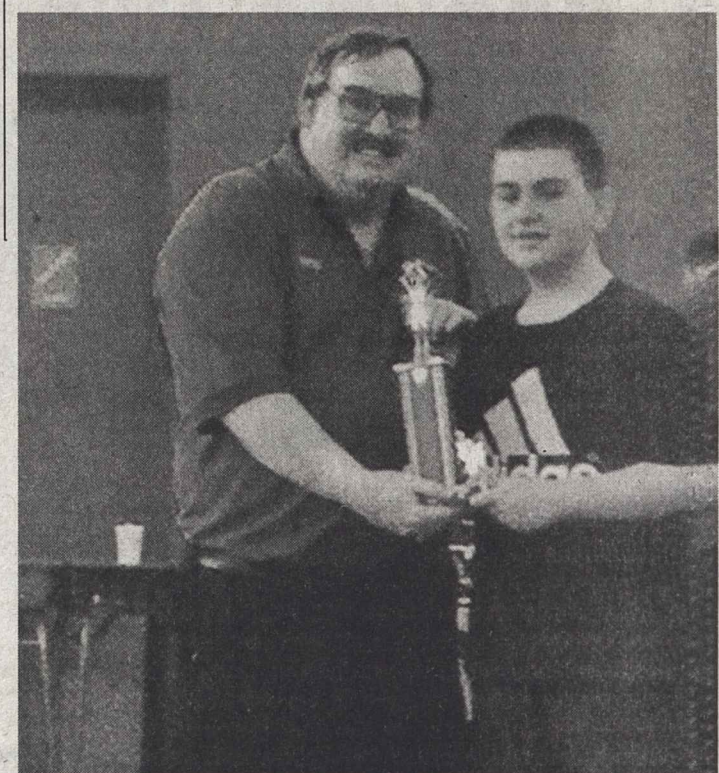

Wilmington would have to kill off two penalties in the period but were up to the task as Chirichiello powered the puck out of the defensive zone and Churchill and Savage back-checked and played a strong two-way game.

On Sunday the 16th the coaches decided to show what a talented team the Squirt 3's are by having Finnegan come out of net and unleash his rocket shot on the Reading Rockets and put quick and stout Dalton in between the pipes.

The new line-up took some getting used to and Reading jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead. It would have been more if not for the strong net minding of Dalton who turned away a big shot with just 15 seconds left in the first period.

The fans in attendance could sense the shift in momentum in the second period and Wilmington finally got on board as O'Shea took a Mitchell rebound and put it home at 7:52. O'Shea would even it up just a minute later as he took a Savage pass and went high and the period ended knotted at 2-2.

In the third, the Wildcats continued to press and, with about seven minutes left, Sanborn took a Gates pass of the puck in the corner. Seeing Gates streaking to the net Sanborn put it towards the middle and was able to get a fortuitous bounce and knock it in to get the game winner. Wilmington ended with a 3-2 win and the winners of three straight games.

Wilmington resident, Justin Trevisani, 14 years old, won the Regional Level of the Knights of Columbus Hoop Shoot on March 15, 2014. He is off to States competition being held at Nichols College in Dudley, Massachusetts on March 29, 2014. (courtesy photo).

North Shore group discusses local priorities

By PAUL FEELY

The North Suburban Planning Council recently held a Priority Mapping Project Next Steps Forum in Winchester.

Town officials from various towns - including Reading, local business and commission members and community advocates met to discuss the results of the North Shore Planning Council's (NSPC) Priority Mapping Project.

The group has spent more than a year identifying local and regional priorities for development, preservation, and infrastructure investments within the region of Burlington, Lynnfield, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn.

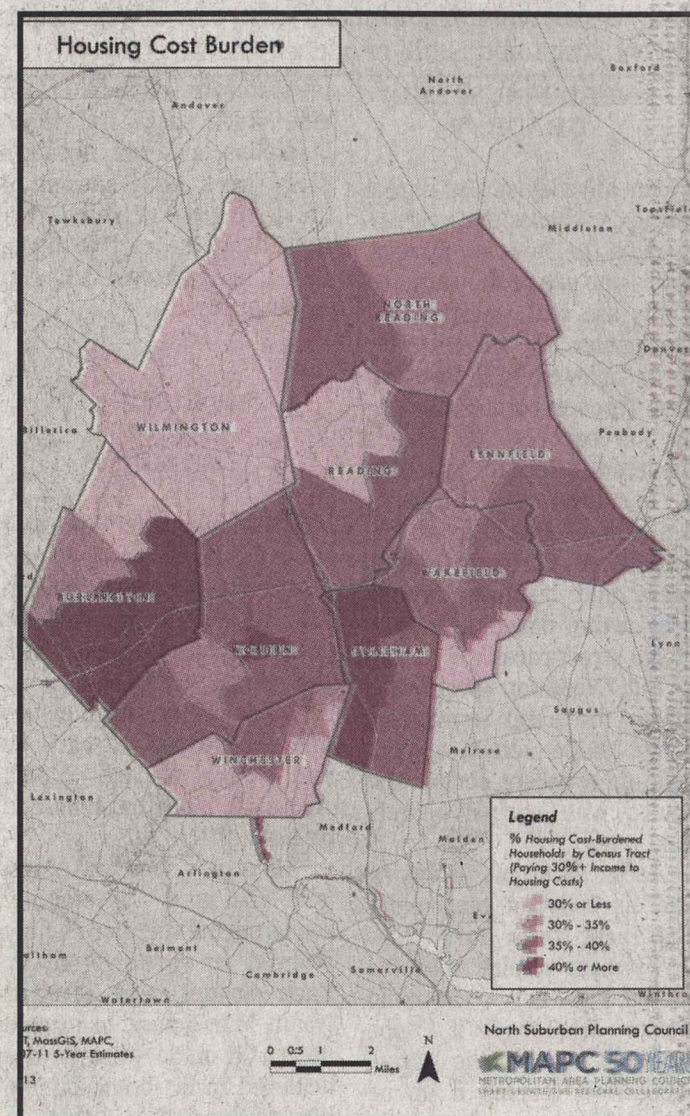

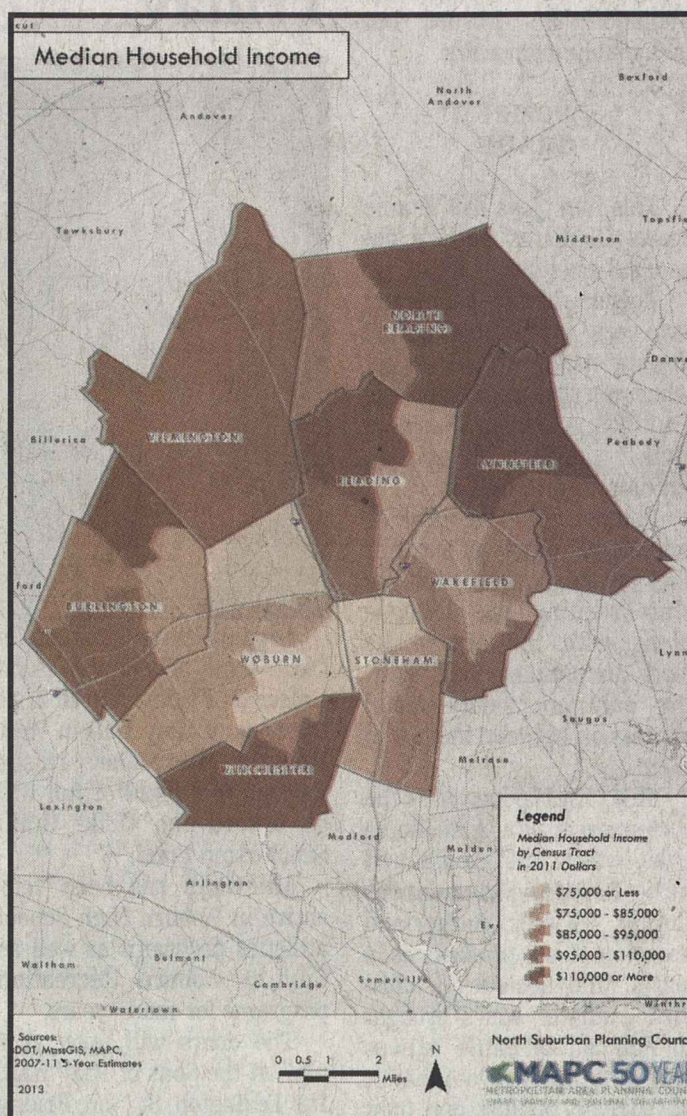

Between April 2012 and September 2013, Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC) engaged the eight participating municipalities in the subregion in local and subregional dialogues about land use issues that transcend municipal boundaries.

The project resulted in the identification of 71 regional priorities for development, preservation, and infrastructure investment in the eight participating NSPC subregion municipalities.

The project provides a portrait of life in the Middlesex East readership region. The following are some highlights.

Population

According to Census 2010 figures, the NSPC subregion is home to approximately 203,921 individuals or 6.5 percent of the population in the MAPC region. Among the nine municipalities in the subregion, Woburn, Wakefield, Reading, and Burlington have the largest total population. Over the last decade, the sub-region population has grown at a slightly lower rate when compared to the MAPC region and the state as a whole. According to Census data, between 2000 and 2010, the NSPC subregion grew by 5,504 or 2.9 percent, compared to the MAPC region growth rate of 3.1 percent. MAPC MetroFuture projections indicate that the 65+ population is projected to grow 86 percent from 2010

NORTH SUBURBAN PLANNING COUNCIL SUBREGIONAL PRIORITY MAPPING PROJECT - The above maps show the Median Household income in 2011 dollars for several area communities. Housing Cost Burden is shown on the right. The federal government defines households as cost-burdened if they spend more than 30 percent of income on housing. Households spending more than 50 percent of income on housing are considered extremely cost-burdened. Housing costs include expenses on mortgage, real estate taxes, homeowner insurance, rent, utilities, etc. Census tracts with the greatest percent of cost burdened households are located in Burlington, Stoneham, and Woburn.

- 2035. In terms of ethnic diversity, over the last decade the sub-region has become more diverse.

Household Characteristics

According to Census 2010 figures, family households make up over half of all households in the NSPC subregion, which is comparative to the MAPC region (70 percent in NSPC and 60 percent in MAPC, respectively). Non-family households make up 30 percent of NSPC and 40 percent of MAPC households. Among non-family households, the NSPC region has a larger percentage of single person households when compared to the MAPC region (83 percent of NSPC and 75 percent in MAPC, respectively). The subregion also has a greater percentage of non-family, single person households with people aged 65 and older (42 percent in NSPC and 35 percent in MAPC, respectively).

Housing Units

Housing units have grown statewide by 7 percent since 2000 (2,621,989 total housing units in 2000 and 2,808,254 total housing units in 2010). Woburn and Wakefield had the largest housing unit growth in the North Suburban region, ranging from 10,000 to 30,000 units each.

Transportation

The subregion is partially served by commuter rail and bus lines. The town of North Reading is the only municipality not directly served by MBTA bus or rail service. In terms of bike and walk facilities, Stoneham, Woburn, and Burlington are home to the greatest number of walking and bike trails. The Tri-Community Bikeway, which involves these three communities, is a priority transportation infrastructure project.

Workers in the North Suburban subregion are traveling 16 miles round trip on average to their place of employment, which is much more than their counterparts in Metro Boston and statewide, where residents are traveling about 14 miles round trip to work every day.

When you look at commutes for people who live in NSPC municipalities, residents commute for roughly 12 miles roundtrip; workers in the MAPC region as a whole commute for

"Need for Speed"

by Paul Feely

"NEED FOR SPEED" follows a cross-country daredevil dash through rural California by the superest of today's supercars. Unfortunately the movie lacks logic, decent script and is full of clichéd characters.

"NEED FOR SPEED"
GRADE: **

For anybody sick of digital movie car chases that routinely defy the laws of physics, here's one where the cars and stunts are real (mostly) and spectacular. A cross-country sprint followed by a daredevil dash through rural California by the superest of today's supercars, "Need for Speed" is a car-lover's dream, a "Cannonball Run" throwback, with drivers punching through gears and burning through tires as they dodge the cops in illegal street races.

But "Need for Speed" also makes the jump from video game to big screen without logic or a decent script, and loaded with clichéd characters.

Aaron Paul of "Breaking Bad" is Tobey, a car builder and racer from rural New York whose rivalry with the hometown boy (Dominic Cooper) who made it to the Indy 500 reveals the consequences of tearing it up on public highways. Somebody gets killed, on top of all the innocent bystanders and their SUVs they run off the road.

Tobey gets out of jail, rounds up his team (Scott Mescudi, Rami Malek, Ramon Rodriguez, Harrison Gilbertson) and sets out for revenge.

First, he has to get a car. So he talks a billionaire collector into lending him a Shelby Mustang that he customized. Tobey's team includes a pilot (Mescudi) and a chase truck that can refuel the car on the road. As if that could happen.

And the car comes with its own "right seater," a navigator/co-driver, played by Imogen Poots.

They're dashing from upstate New York, through New York city to Detroit, then Indiana, Monument Valley, Arizona, Utah's Bonneville salt flats and into San Francisco, where the REAL race will start.

The real race, The DeLeon, is run by a mysterious, manic and motor-mouthed millionaire (Michael Keaton) who broadcasts the races online. "Nobody knows who he is," even though his webcasts are on video and we can see him.

But get past those head-slappers, give up on hearing any dialogue snappier than "Looks like a scene out of 'Speed' down there; hard left in 3, 2, 1..." and this is a car fanatic's dream.

Stuntman turned director Scott Waugh ("Act of Valor") makes this into a stunt team tour de force. Some of the bits where cars get airborne are preposterous outside of an auto stunt show. But these machines are put through their paces, with enough of the driving tricks plainly performed by the cast to make this a movie Steve McQueen might approve.

"300:RISE OF AN EMPIRE"
GRADE: **

One would be hard-pressed to find a movie out right now that is a bigger spectacle than "300: Rise of an Empire."

The picture is packed with vertiginous vistas of heaving seas and roiling storm clouds and landscapes of carnage and mayhem and blood. Above all, blood, gushing and geysering.

All of it - seas and skies, guts and gore - is digitally rendered and therefore highly stylized as writer-producer Zack Snyder and director Noam Murro seek to expand upon and outdo what Snyder achieved in his breakout 2006 blockbuster "300."

This film doesn't feature the relatively gore-free PG-13 swordplay of "The Legend of Hercules" and "Pompeii," this year's earlier sword-and-sandal wannabe epics. "Rise of an Empire" goes all out in every respect. It's outrageously and unapologetically excessive in its R-rated violence and achingly awful in its dialogue. Sample line: "Today we will dance across the backs of dead Greeks. Today we deliver submission!"

Inspired, as was "300," by a graphic novel by Frank Miller, "Empire" takes place in 480 B.C., the same time as the events in "300," when Sparta's King Leonidas (Gerard Butler) and his well-muscled band of 300 warriors were wiped out by Persian hordes. There is only slight overlap between "Empire" and "300" as Butler didn't want to do the sequel. He appears only briefly in scenes lifted from "300," and actors from the first picture, Rodrigo Santoro as the Persian god-king Xerxes and Lena Headey as Spartan Queen Gorgo, are very much secondary players this time around.

"Empire" tells the parallel tale of the Athenian navy under the command of the general Themistokles (usually spelled Themistocles), played with rough-hewn authority by Australian actor Sullivan Stapleton. Themistokles does battle with the vastly more powerful Persian fleet commanded by Artemisia, a female fighter performed with incredible ferocity by Eva Green. So fierce is Green in the role - she lops off a man's head and then plants a great big smooch on his lips - that she's able to spit out the most ridiculous speeches with such overpowering forcefulness that they almost don't seem ridiculous at all. Almost.

"Rise of an Empire" is not great by any stretch of the imagination, but it's very impressive in its single-minded dedication to creating a moviegoing experience designed to totally engulf its audience. It's absurd but undeniably memorable.

"POMPEII"
GRADE: *

This film plays like Titanic meets Gladiator, but it's not as good as either of those.

This marginally competent but very predictable period disaster movie is what you get when you give a director like Paul W.S. Anderson (Resident Evil, AVP: Aliens Vs. Predators) $100 million.

Pompeii's plotting is so relentlessly empty of surprise that you can be forgiven if you start reciting the dialogue along with the actors. Its leads are similarly dull, sharing only one pouty facial expression between the two of them.

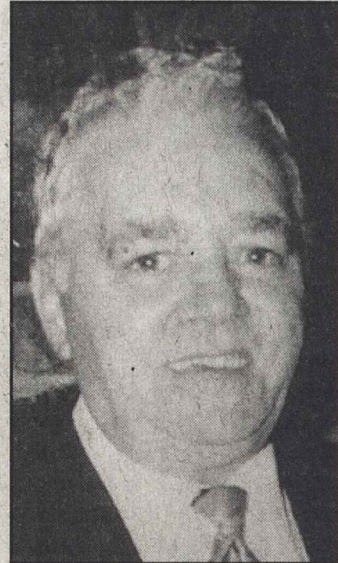

Milo (Kit Harington) is the sole survivor of a Celtic horse tribe, which was slaughtered by Roman commander Corvus (Kiefer Sutherland camping it up). Raised as a slave, Milo becomes a chiseled gladiator who's brought to Pompeii to battle Atticus (Adewale Akinnuoye-Agbaje), an African pugilist one fight away from retirement ... er ... earning his freedom. It's fair to say that these men will become buddy-gladiators, like Mel Gibson and Danny Glover in Lethal Weapon.

Emily Browning is Cassia, the daughter of Pompeii's leader, Severus (Jared Harris), and his wife Aurelia (Carrie-Anne Moss). Fleeing Rome and the carnal attentions of Corvus, she meets Milo when her horse breaks its leg and the Celt lovingly snaps its neck. It's a romantic moment for the books.

Pompeii's spectacle occasionally makes you forget just how mediocre it really is. Unfortunately, whenever your brain slips into action-movie-cruise-control, the doomed love story pops back in to ruin the fun.

Ozzie Guilli benefit is Friday

Organizers are planning an Ozzie Guilli Scholarship Fund Raiser on Friday, March 21 at the Sons of Italy Hall in West Woburn. All money raised through this night of fun will go toward the Ozzie Guilli Scholarship Fund.

Mr. Guilli has been very active in Woburn High School athletics programs as well as City of Woburn Recreation programs for many years.

The doors will open at 7 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall, 168 Lexington St., on Friday March 21 with the event running until midnight.

Tickets are $20 per person (checks are to be made out to Woburn Dollars for Scholars) To reserve a table, call Kim @ 978-857-0147 or Karen @ 781-640-1149

Tickets are also available at the door. There will be a DJ, raffles, 50/50, food and a cash bar.

"The Art Forger" and Gardner Museum heist Thursday's subjects

Woburn Reads continues with a visit from Barbara Shapiro, the author of this year's selection, The Art Forger. The Burbeen Free Lecture Series is the host for this event. Ms. Shapiro will discuss The Art Forger and answer questions you may have about the book or her writing process.

In 1990, thirteen masterpieces were dramatically stolen from the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum in Boston. This incident is the backdrop of The Art Forger, in which a struggling artist is asked to copy one of the stolen masterpieces, and must deal with the consequences. This literary thriller has been on the New York Times Bestseller List as well as that of The Boston Globe.

Barbara Shapiro is the author of six novels, four screenplays, and one non-fiction book. In her previous career incarnations she has directed research projects for a residential substance abuse facility, worked as a systems analyst/statistician, and served as an adjunct professor teaching sociology at Tufts University and creative writing at Northeastern University. She acknowledges that she likes being a novelist the best.

The author will appear at the Joyce Middle School Auditorium, 55 Locust Street, on Thursday, March 20, at 7 P.M. Doors open at 6:30. After the question and answer section of the program, the author will be available to sign books. Books will be available for purchase.

IN THE HOUSE (NORTH READING, READING, WILMINGTON, AND WHERE?)

"The Board of Selectmen has given the go-ahead for town officials to sign a Regional Housing Services Agreement with three local communities," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

North Reading, Reading, Wilmington, and Saugus share the position.

"The agreement outlines a regional agreement to share a housing services staff person to actively monitor existing affordable housing, and create a central repository for ready buyers and renters for the four communities. The shared service will benefit the municipalities involved by providing expertise needed for monitoring affordable housing requirements related to home sales, rentals, and the subsidized housing inventory as well as housing production goals." Some details of the agreement:

"The Term of this Agreement shall commence on July 1, 2014 and shall expire on June 30, 2016, unless earlier terminated as set forth herein. Any municipality may withdraw from the Agreement ...

"During the Term of this Agreement, the Town of Reading, acting as the lead municipality, shall operate the Regional Housing Service Office. The Town of Reading, through its standard personnel practices, shall employ or contract the adequate staff necessary ... There shall exist an Advisory Committee comprised of one (1) representative, or their designee, from each Municipality, whom shall be appointed by the Town Manager/Administrator or Mayor of the Municipality. Each Municipality shall have one vote and each representative, or their designee, shall be authorized to cast such vote. The Advisory Committee shall meet on a quarterly basis in July, October, January and April...."

PARK AND RIDE (WOBURN, STONEHAM, BURLINGTON)

"Without much debate, the Woburn City Council at its most recent meeting voted unanimously to grant a special permit that will allow the Burlington-based Herb Chambers auto dealership to park as many as 139 cars at 400 Unicorn Park in East Woburn, near the Stoneham line," notes the "Daily Chronicle."

"The council added two conditions, one suggested by the Planning Board capping the number of vehicles to the aforementioned limit, and making the permit non-transferable, meaning any entity that comes in after Herb Chambers seeking a similar use must obtain a new special permit.

"Representing Herb Chambers, local attorney Joseph Tarby said the auto dealer intends to use the upper deck of a parking facility to park vehicles, which will be shuttled individually to the dealership on Cambridge Street in Burlington. Cars will be brought from the factory to Unicorn Park on a carrier."

"Herb Chambers formerly used an area of New England Executive Park in Burlington for overflow parking, and is seeking the move to Unicorn Park. The city of Woburn requires a special permit for accessory parking."

"There are 475 parking spaces in the parking facility at 400 Unicorn Park. There are 279 spaces required to comply with the city's zoning ordinance. Since the building is 97 percent occupied, the parking lot will never reach capacity, Tarby said...."

"The only person from the audience to speak during the public hearing was Michael Meaney, Executive Director of the Woburn Business Association. He said Herb Chambers would be a 'good tenant' for the parking garage...."

"There will be no residential impact," said Meaney. "There are almost no neighbors."

Skin care tips when in cancer treatment

(MS) - The effects that cancer treatment can have on a person's skin have long been overlooked. But patients who have suffered through skin rashes and burns will be glad to know that a growing trend in treating cancer focuses on curing both the disease and helping patients maintain their self-esteem and quality of life. A new movement combining oncology and dermatology aims to address both the disease and the potentially negative consequences that rashes, burns and blemishes can produce.

"For obvious reasons, the skin, hair, and nails have not been the topmost concerns in oncology - the most important goal is to treat and cure the cancer," says Mario Lacouture, M.D., who specializes in dermatologic conditions that result from cancer treatments. "But skin side-effects can affect patients' sense of self and their interactions with others. These side effects can lead to costly treatments, affect overall health, and perhaps most significantly, they may require that anticancer treatments be reduced or stopped altogether."

Upon receiving a cancer diagnosis, patients concerned about the potential impact that treatment may have on their complexions should discuss their options with their physicians. After initiating such discussions, men and women being treated for cancer can take additional steps to maintain their appearance and quality of life both during and after treatment.

* After your skin care routine. Upon receiving a cancer diagnosis, patients must make a host of lifestyle adjustments to many things, including to their skin care routines. Intense skin rashes and burns are common side effects of chemotherapy and radiation, and certain side effects are actually an indicator that the treatment is working. While such consequences can affect patients' self-image, these side effects are entirely manageable.

"What many patients do not realize is that most dermatologic side effects are manageable, allowing people to maintain their quality of life and continue their cancer treatments," says Lacouture.

Recognizing traditional skin care products' ineffectiveness at combating the dermatologic side effects of cancer treatment during her own battle with the disease, cancer survivor and entrepreneur Lindy Snider began working with dermatologists, oncologists, nurses, and skin care formulators to address the issue, eventually developing Lindi Skin (www.lindiskin.com), a collection of skin care products designed specifically for individuals undergoing treatment for cancer and related disorders. Combining state-of-the-art technology with innovative natural ingredients, Lindi Skin products include a host of botanical extracts boasting anti-inflammatory, analgesic, anti-bacterial, and anti-viral properties, while providing a soothing and gentle solution even for those patients with especially sensitive skin.

"Tarceva, the medication I take for lung cancer, has played havoc with my skin, which has become unbelievably dry and sensitive," says Phyllis of Coral Gables, FL. "(Lindi Skin) products are the only ones I can use on my face and body. They actually soothe, whereas all others create a burning sensation."

* Embrace antioxidants. Often touted as miracle ingredients in a host of foods, antioxidants can be found beyond the dinner table as well. In developing Lindi Skin, Snider and her team designed an exclusive formulation of concentrated botanicals that deliver high levels of beneficial antioxidants to the skin. Known as the LSA Complex(R), this formulation includes Snider's pioneering use of astaxanthin, a powerful antioxidant that is only now beginning to receive widespread recognition for its restorative properties, a decade after Snider began using it in her skin care products. While astaxanthin can relieve the pain and inflammation in the skin that cancer patients often feel, it also can help those suffering from less severe, non-cancer related skin problems, such as sunburn, rosacea, dry skin and UV damage.

Skin damage is an often overlooked side effect of cancer treatment. But cancer patients should know that side effects like skin rashes and burns are manageable and don't have to negatively impact self-image or quality of life.

Get the scoop on soy foods' health benefits

The prevalence of soy products in recipes and ready-made foods has skyrocketed in recent years. Soy-based milk products and others that substitute soy with more traditional ingredients are no longer relegated to the outskirts of the neighborhood grocery store. While soy is being consumed in greater numbers than in decades past, some people are still unaware of the various health benefits and advantages to including soy in their diets.

Soyfoods provide a number of nutritional benefits for people of all ages. According to the Soyfoods Association of North America, recent studies have indicated that eating soy at an early age may help protect against some diseases, including breast cancer, later in life. Soy also may help improve cognitive function.

People largely turn to soy to maintain a healthy weight and control their cholesterol, as soy can replace foods that are higher in saturated fat, calories and cholesterol. For example, a glass of whole milk contains 150 calories and eight grams of total fat. Soy milk, however, comes in between 80 and 100 calories and may have roughly four grams of fat. The fat is mostly healthy fats, as there are only trace amounts of saturated fat in soy products.

Soy also has cholesterol-lowering properties and can be beneficial to those who are lactose intolerant. Vegetarians and vegans routinely turn to soyfoods as a main protein source.

Soyfoods can offer a number of healthy benefits, including providing a lean protein source that is lower in saturated fats than other forms of protein. Calcium-fortified soymilk offers the same nutritional value as cow's milk but can still be consumed by those who are lactose intolerant. Soy can help many people maintain healthy weights, and soyfoods promote cardiovascular health.

While soyfoods can be beneficial, such foods are not perfect. Allergies to soy are possible, and as with any dietary supplement, moderate consumption may be all that's necessary to provide nutritional benefits. Overconsumption of soy may not provide the desired results.

One concern regarding soy is its relationship to genetically modified organisms, or GMOs. Reports suggest that the vast majority of soybeans produced in the United States are GMOs. While these soybeans are primarily used for livestock feed, many foods that people eat also contain GMO soybeans. The jury is still out with regard to the impact that GMO foods have on personal health. Proponents of GMOs say their use makes agricultural products safer and more affordable. GMO crops may be resistant to pests, eliminating the need for herbicides and pesticides. But opponents of GMOs say that they may be harmful, as they might have less nutritional value, incite allergic reactions, cause problems with liver function and be harmful to the planet.

Individuals who still want to enjoy soy products such as tofu, miso, tempeh, soy sauce, soy milk, and foods that contain soy lecithin, an emulsifier, can opt for organic products and those that specifically advertise no GMO ingredients. More and more food manufacturers are heeding consumer demand for foods that do not contain GMOs, and producers of soyfoods are no exception. Brands like Silk(R), Tofurky(R), Wildwood(R) and Eden Foods(R) produce soy products that are GMO-free. Read labels to determine if soy products contain GMOs.

Simple ways to stop overeating

Many people strive to adopt healthier lifestyles. A lifestyle that includes routine exercise and a healthy diet can vastly improve quality of life and reduce a person's risk for various ailments.

Though many people find exercise gets easier the more they do it, that's not always the case when altering their diet. Adapting to a healthy diet and smaller portions is a challenge, and many people find themselves overeating as a result. Some people overeat because they're hungry, while others are simply accustomed to eating large meals. Regardless of why a person overeats, it's important that people looking to adopt healthier lifestyles avoid consuming more food than their body needs. The following are a few simple ways men and women can curtail their eating habits so they aren't going overboard at mealtime.

* Stay hydrated. Some people overeat because they mistake the symptoms of dehydration for hunger. It's easy to make that mistake, as the symptoms of dehydration mimic those of hunger. For example, when a person is thirsty, his or her mouth is dry. Eating can temporarily relieve dry mouth, but that does not necessarily mean a person's mouth was dry because he or she was hungry. Instead of immediately responding to perceived hunger symptoms by eating, drink a glass of water. If the symptoms subside within 10 minutes, then you were likely dehydrated and not hungry. Staying hydrated by drinking water throughout the day can reduce the likelihood that you will confuse dehydration with hunger, which reduces your risk of overeating.

* Eat when you're hungry. The symptoms of hunger tend to present themselves within five hours of eating a balanced meal. Ignoring these symptoms because you don't feel as though five hours is a sufficient interval between meals is a mistake. The longer you ignore hunger, the less likely you are to make healthy choices, including eating healthy portions, when you do eat. Even a low-calorie, healthy snack like Greek yogurt or a piece of fruit four to five hours after a meal can sate your appetite and prevent you from overeating when you sit down for your next meal.

* Eat breakfast. A study published in the British Journal of Nutrition proved that mom was right when she told you breakfast was the most important meal of the day. The study examined roughly 900 adults and found that those who ate more carbohydrates, fat and protein in the morning were more likely to eat less over the course of the day than those who saved their biggest meals for lunchtime or dinner. Many men and women skip breakfast thanks to hectic mornings dominated by getting the kids ready for school and rushing to work. If time is limited in the morning, keep cereal or instant oatmeal at the office and eat breakfast as you catch up on email or plan your workday.
